Fiery Crash Takes 29 Lives on Game-Bound Plane

SILVER PLUME, Colo. (AP)—The cream of the Wichita State University football team, its top athletic officials and some of its most loyal fans were killed Friday when their game-bound plane crashed into a mountainside while trying to cross the Continental Divide.

Twenty-nine persons, 13 of the players, were killed. Eleven persons—including nine players, a copilot and a team trainer—survived.

The Colorado State Patrol said there was no chance of other survivors among the 40 persons listed as passengers and crew on the twin-engine Martin 404.

The aircraft, dubbed the "Gold Plane" by the team, was one of two taking the squad, its coaching staff and boosters to Logan, Utah, for a game today with Utah State, where the Shockers hoped to break a three-game losing string.

The other plane, the "Black Plane," arrived safely with 34 persons, including 23 players and five assistant coaches, aboard. The game was called off and the rest of the 11-game season probably will be canceled.

Among those presumed dead were the athletic director, A. C. "Bert" Katzenmeyer; the head football coach, Ben Wilson; Kansas State Rep. Ray King and Wichita banker John Grooms and their wives.

The list also included Marvin Brown, the team's second leading rusher; Gene Robinson, the Shockers' top pass receiver; and Ray Coleman of Wichita, membership chairman of the Shockers Club, a booster organization. Tradition decreed that top players traveled with the head coach.

The crash, a few minutes after a refueling stop in Denver, plunged the campus at the 12,000-student school into mourning.

The other plane was impounded by the Federal Aviation Administration in Utah and its occupants were to return to Wichita on commercial flights today.

Cause of the crash was undetermined.

A university information officer, Doug Lewis, said the university leased the plane from Golden Eagle Aviation, which apparently leased the craft from someone else, but he didn't know who. He said Golden Eagle "told us the plane didn't belong to them." Golden Eagle provided the crew.

The plane was a short-range airliner of a type built in the late 1940s and early 1950s. The plane impounded at Logan is a Martin 202, smaller version of the 404.

One week ago, one of two planes chartered by Wichita State ran off the runway and was damaged. The second charter plane shuttled the team to Canyon, Tex., for its game with West Texas State University. University spokesmen said it was unknown whether the same planes were used for the trips to Texas and Utah.

The ill-fated plane, with one engine smoking, crashed into the east side of 11,992-foot Loveland Pass about 800 feet below the summit, just below timberline.

"The plane tried to land in the highway in front of us," said Mrs. George Grunwald of Huntington Beach, Calif., who was driving down the mountainside on winding U.S. 6 with her husband. "By the grace of God he zoomed up so he didn't hit us. He took a 45-degree turn and went over a little ledge on the side of the mountain."

There was a "big ball of fire and immense black smoke" as the plane vanished into the tall spruce trees with a series of loud explosions, she said.

Strewn about the crash area were orange jerseys, gold helmets with a black "W" on the side, shoulder pads and other team equipment.

Authorities posted guards around the area to await an investigation by an eight-man team from the National Transportation Safety Board.

A search for bodies was to resume today. A few were recovered Friday.

The survivors were taken to hospitals in Denver, 55 miles east of the crash scene, in ambulances and an Army helicopter from Ft. Carson.

Two survivors—trainer Tom Reeves, 31, and John Taylor, a member of the team from Sherman, Tex.—were listed in critical condition with burns.

Another survivor was Donald Skipper, 34, of Oklahoma City, president of Golden Eagle who was aboard as copilot. The other crew members, pilot Dan Crocker and stewardesses Judy Land and Judy Dunn, were presumed killed.

"Mom, I'm alive," Glenn Kostal told his mother by telephone. "It's a miracle," said the 20-year-old linebacker from Chicago. "My buddies are all dead."

Mike Bruce, 21, from Sherman, Tex., described the crash in a faltering voice from his Denver hospital bed.

"Everyone was looking at the

Tragedy Clearly Etched in Their Faces

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—The emotional wounds were still too fresh for any of the young Wichita State University football players to comprehend fully what had happened but the tragedy was clearly etched on their faces.

Some mirrored disbelief. Others wept openly. All were deeply immersed in shock after learning that a companion plane had crashed high in the Colorado Rockies, killing 29 of their teammates, coaches and friends.

This "closely knit bunch" as assistant coach Fred Conti had described them was now torn apart by a swift act of death.

One of the players' first wishes on hearing the news of the crash was for access to a church where they could offer prayers for the victims.

Quietly, in single file, they walked from their motel rooms in downtown Logan as darkness approached to the nearby 11th

Ward Chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

There they got their wish for a few moments of quiet prayer and remembrance.

Earlier, the 34-year-old Conti, a former assistant to Ara Parseghian at Northwestern, fought back tears and spoke in nearly-muted terms about the tragedy.

"These guys truly loved each other," he said. "We are a young team, and these boys were a closely knit bunch. We thought we were really building something.

The shock also was evident among officials of Utah State University, which was to have been Wichita State's opponent in football this afternoon.

"Our two institutions," said Dr. Glen L. Taggart, USU president, "which have been bound together through valued association in and out of athletics are further bound now in this common tragedy."

He announced that a memorial service would be held early next week on the USU campus and that the campus flag would be flown at half staff in honor of the victims.

The USU players, at a team meeting several hours after the crash, were led in prayer by kicking specialist Terry Little-dike, a returned missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Head Coach Chuck Mills said his players were shocked "and want to express their sympathy in some positive way." He scheduled a practice session for 4 p.m. Sunday to help the players get their minds off the crash and back onto football.

After a night that offered little sleep, the Wichita State group boarded a bus before dawn for a ride to Salt Lake City where they were to leave by air for home and formal farewells to their buddies.

And on the USU campus—a day that would have been perfect football weather—there was a shroud of mourning.

Tight Security as Nixon Goes to Ireland

LONDON (UPI)—President stop in England. In sharp contrast with his triumphal Middle East tour, Nixon reviewed the Middle East contrast with his triumphal entry Friday into Madrid, waiting U.S. Air Force helicopter, which flew them 20 miles to the Prime Minister's thousand-acre country estate, Chequers.

The President arrived in Britain at 6:14 a.m. EDT. The big jet plane, Air Force One, landed in a section of London's Heathrow Airport that has been cordoned off for protest demonstrations by critics of the U.S. role in Vietnam.

Heavy security precautions police. There were no elaborate ceremonies. Nixon and Heath talked man, with no advisers on a lawn about 150 yards from present, in the prime minister's study, which overlooks a neatly tended rose garden. British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers held a separate conference in another room.

Nixon looked tired when he emerged from Air Force One at Heathrow Airport, but perked up during the 15-minute helicopter flight over the lush green English countryside to Chequers. The helicopter set down on a lawn about 150 yards from the mansion, Winfield House, donated to the U.S. government by millionaire heiress Barbara Hutton to serve as a residence for American ambassadors.

She joined her husband and Heath at Chequers in time for lunch with Queen Elizabeth, who flew in from her castle at Balmoral, Scotland, to thank the Nixons for their warm hospitality to her children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, during their visit to Washington last July.

The Nixons left Madrid at 9:28 a.m. (4:28 a.m. EDT), after a cordial exchange of farewells with Spain's 77-year-old ruler, Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Delighted with his reception in Spain—where he drew "bravos" from the largest crowd that has ever turned out to greet him—Nixon told Franco that "I look forward to returning either in an official capacity or as a private citizen."

Franco assured him that his visit had been "useful to both countries and both governments."

Security in Dublin and Limerick in Ireland, Nixon's next stops, was the tightest in Irish history because of political protests to Nixon's visit.

Claiming top priority at the Nixon-Heath talks were a new Middle East peace policy and the question of Soviet intentions in the Arab world.

Diplomatic sources said Nixon and Heath wanted to lay the groundwork for firm decision on Middle East policy, to come in a few weeks when the political situation in Egypt becomes more clear in the aftermath of the death of President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Bell, Rolison Still on the Fence But, Leaning Toward Buckley

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON—Candidates although both spoke in behalf of Buckley when he appeared in Kingston Monday night.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. are still on the U.S. Senatorial fence but seem to be leaning to the right toward Conservative candidate James L. Buckley.

The three candidates in the Goodell He recalled that "many race for the six-year term in Washington are Buckley, incumbent Senator Charles E. Goodell, Republican-Liberal hopeful and Richard L. Ottinger, the Democrat.

Bell is seeking a second term in Albany opposed by George Barthel, Democrat of Wawarsing while Rolison is campaigning for his third term, opposed by David Lenefsky, Democrat-Liberal of West Shokan.

Republicans, however, are reportedly worried that throwing votes to Buckley will result in a victory for Ottinger. Most polls show Goodell running third.

Buckley supporters argue however that if "all" Republicans vote for Buckley, who is an enrolled member of the GOP, he will come out victorious.

The controversy between Goodell and Buckley continued throughout the state this week-end, according to United Press and Associated Press wire service reports.

In Albany, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller reaffirmed his support for Goodell, the man he appointed to the senate two years ago to replace the late Robert F. Kennedy. The governor warned "outsiders" to keep out of Goodell's campaign.

The reference to outsiders was apparently aimed at Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who earlier this week labeled Goodell a "radical liberal."

Goodell has opposed many of President Nixon's policies.

Rockefeller, appearing with Goodell at a Republican committee meeting in the state capital, told party leaders that Goodell can draw votes from outside the Republican Party which he said is essential because the Republicans are outnumbered heavily by the Democrats. As for "outsiders," the governor said, "I'm not telling them what to do and they're not telling me."

Goodell said he regretted Agnew's criticism and charged that the vice president was trying to "purge him from the Republican Party."

New York City Resident Killed on Thruway

By JON POWERS

NEWBURGH

A 28-year-old New York City man was killed Friday when he was struck by a car while directing traffic around a disabled vehicle on the New York State Thruway about four miles north of the Modena service area in the Ulster County township of Plattekill. State Police from the Newburgh barracks reported.

Killed was Louis Bourdony, 28, of 597 West 196th Street, New York City. His death was the 38th registered this year on Ulster County highways. According to State Police, Bourdony was standing behind his disabled vehicle in the southbound lane of the superhighway directing traffic away from the parked car. The New York City man was struck at that spot by a car operated by Joseph Shannon, 64, of North Creek, a community in the northern sector of the state. Police noted that Shannon apparently did not see Bourdony as he stood near the edge of the highway. No summonses were issued to the driver of the vehicle.

Bourdony was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The accident took place at about 8:30 Friday night.

The extent of Bourdony's injuries were not released by police. Cause of death is pending an autopsy.

The New York City man was the fifth person to die on the Ulster County section of the Thruway this year and was also the fifth pedestrian fatally injured on a county highway. The 37th traffic fatality for 1969 occurred Sept. 28 when a 46-year-old Milton man and four others were killed when their car was struck by a Penn Central train near Ardonia.

In other incidents reported by area police authorities, a 61-year-old Illinois woman sustained minor injuries when the car in which she was riding was struck in the rear by another auto on the Route 28 traffic

"We were enjoying ourselves—laughing. The plane took a dip... or something. Next thing, the plane ended up in the trees."

In Kansas, Gov. Robert Docking ordered the state's flags lowered to half staff. He termed the crash a "great tragedy for Kansas."

Dr. Clark Ahlberg, president of the university, said it was a "sad, tragic day in the history of Wichita State University."

He called friends and relatives of some of the victims together on the campus. Many were in tears. He kept a telephone line open to St. Anthony's Hospital in Denver to keep them abreast of condition reports on the survivors.

Later, Ahlberg and some of the relatives flew to Denver on an Air National Guard plane.

At Logan, those aboard the second plane learned of the tragedy about 10 minutes after landing.

"Oh God! No. It couldn't happen," one said.

Ten years ago, 16 players from the California Poly football team died when their plane crashed in Ohio after their game.

Plane crashes have killed a number of other athletes including Notre Dame football Coach Knute Rockne, former heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano, tennis star Rafael Osuna and golfer Tony Lema.

Myrtle Bode, 61, of Elmhurst, Ill., was taken to Benedictine Hospital where she was treated for whiplash. She was later released, noted Ulster County Sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Bode was traveling in an auto operated by her husband, Howard. Police said that the Bode vehicle was traveling west on the traffic circle when it was struck in the rear by a Rhinebeck State Police reported that Francis Schneider of Cardinal Road, Hyde Park sustained a fractured left leg when the car in which she was riding struck an unattended vehicle on Cardinal Road in the Town of Hyde Park. Her husband, Charles E. Schneider, 34, struck the rear of the parked

Meet Billy, The Missionary

Martin Brings Olive Branch

DETROIT (UPI)—The gospel according to Billy Martin will be delivered personally into the home of every Detroit Tiger ball player.

"I intend to visit with every man on the team this winter," said Martin, who was hired Friday, to manage the Tigers out of the American League wilderness.

"I don't believe in a generation gap," said the man chosen to carry on the work of Mayo Smith, "only in a communications gap. I believe in talking with my players—there's only one way to break up cliques and that is to nip them in the bud."

"I like to talk with them and find out their gripes and their problems," said Martin, who signed a two-year contract at an estimated $60,000 yearly.

Smith's two-year pact at $55,000 per season ran out Thursday when Detroit closed out its season. In four years, Smith managed the tigers to a pair of second-place spots, one world championship and this season's fourth-place finish.

"Loyalty and honesty is a two-way street," Martin said, as much for the writers who would read it, "I'll give it and I'll also expect it in return."

Martin, 42, said he picked Detroit over Oakland for two reasons: "because I think we can win the pennant" and "I didn't want to get fired next year."

The fiery Martin, who was surprisingly nervous at the press conference, was canned nearly a year ago after taking the Minnesota Twins to the American League West Division title in his first year of managing.

"I never had any trouble with Calvin Griffith, Minnesota owner," said the man who compiled .257 lifetime average in 11 scrappy seasons of playing the infield. "I only had problems with a man close to him."

The still-fit Martin was acquired as a player in 1958 to do the same thing he's being asked to do as a manager—instill pride and spirit into a deteriorating Detroit situation—but he was unable to do so.

"I think we have fine material here," Martin said. He said he liked the youth on the pitching staff and denied the club had an age problem.

Mike Roarke could be the lone holdover coach, if he wants to stay, Martin said, but the others haven't been selected yet. Art Fowler likely will be the pitching coach while Charlie Silvera will probably be the bullpen coach. The third of his four-man staff could be John McNamara fired Friday as manager at Oakland.

Martin said he would "cross that bridge when I come to it" regarding how he'd handle Denny McLain.

As for the rest of the troubles, that's why he's going to carry the gospel according to Billy Martin into the home of all the players on the Detroit team.

He listens, too.

BILLY MARTIN (R) talks to newsmen Friday at Detroit Tigers office where he was hired to manage the Tigers. He was reportedly given a two-year contract at $60,000 annually. He succeeds Mayo Smith, who was fired. Martin was himself fired a year ago after leading Minnesota Twins to American League West Division title. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

HELMETED—Quarterback Joe Kapp, 32, tries a Boston Patriots' football helmet on for size after he signed to play with the Patriots Friday. Kapp played out his option with Minnesota Vikings after leading them to NFL championship but demanded five-year, $1.2-million contract—and didn't get. Terms with Patriots were not announced. CHICAGO (AP)—The show goes on today in baseball's playoffs despite a strike by the Major League Umpires Association.

"We'll play the game and we'll have four competent umpires," said Charles "Chub" Feeney of the National League.

"Don't worry, there'll be a ball game," said President Joe Cronin of the American League.

The umpires, on strike for more pay, met here Friday night and turned down management's offer of $3,000 a man for the playoffs and $7,000 for the World Series. They want $5,000 for the playoffs and $10,000 for the World Series.

Feeney would not confirm nor deny that minor league umpires would be used in the start of the NL playoffs today between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. But the Associated Press learned that the four would be John Grimbsy and Henry Morgan of the International League and John Grgiel and John Blanford of the American Association.

Cronin, who was in Minneapolis for the AL playoff between the Twins and Baltimore, said: "We have veteran umpires ready in John Stevens, who has been assigning men for the American League the last two years and we have veteran Charles Berry, who has been working in a supervisory capacity."

Cronin would not name the other two umpires who might work the AL playoffs because "if negotiations are settled there won't be any need to name them."

Major league umpires were available to step in since six-man crews were sent to Minneapolis and Pittsburgh should an 11th-hour breakthrough occur.

Kapp Hits Bomb—On Paper

By TED MEIER Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Kapp, the million-dollar holdout in pro football didn't complete a long bomb for a touchdown, but he finally scored—on paper.

The star quarterback who led the Minnesota Vikings to the National Football League title last year, surprised everyone in the sport by abruptly ending his holdout Friday on the eve of another 13-game NFL weekend.

He further startled most everyone by signing with the win-less Boston Patriots instead of the Vikings.

It's doubtful, but it's possible Kapp might get into Boston's Sunday game against Baltimore.

Kapp played out his option with Minnesota last season, hence was available for negotiations with Billy Sullivan, president of the Pats.

Kapp, who wanted a $1.25 million, five-year contract from the Vikings, was reported to have signed for a $1 million multi-year deal. In addition, Boston sent defensive back John Charles to Minnesota and gave the Vikings their No. 1 choice in the 1971 draft.

The surprise signing of the 32-year-old former California star who also played in the Canadian League before joining the Vikings, shoved into the background the two games to night that kick off the third week of the pro season.

Oakland is at Miami and Pittsburgh at Cleveland. Ten games are listed for Sunday and one for Monday night.

Sunday's schedule, in addition to Baltimore at Boston, find Dallas at St. Louis, the New York Jets at Buffalo, Houston at Cincinnati, Kansas City at Denver, San Francisco at Atlanta, Washington at Philadelphia, San Diego at Los Angeles, Minnesota vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee and the New York Giants at New Orleans.

The Chicago Bears battle the Detroit Lions in a clash of unbeaten in a nationally televised game Monday night.

"I've got to get busy right away," Kapp said. "I have to get the play book and start studying. I'm here to play football. All the rest is ancient history."

Mike Taliaferro will start at quarterback for the Pats against the Colts and Kapp said "I'll be supporting him to the hilt."

Baltimore's veteran Johnny Unitas also will be back on the bench at the start of the game. Earl Morrall has gotten the starting nod in the wake of the Colts' drubbing by Kansas City last week.

Pittsburgh is hopeful of winning their first game of the season at Cleveland tonight. The Browns' regular quarterback Bill Nelson is out with a leg injury while Terry Bradshaw of the Steelers is ready for a good game in the opinion of Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll.

"I feel Bradshaw is the best rookie quarterback in pro football," Noll commented.

In the Orange Bowl at Miami tonight, Bob Griese, who has completed 20 of 44 passes, is expected to lead the Dolphins over the Oakland Raiders.

Denver, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Minnesota are out to extend their unbeaten records in Sunday's game.

Denver's Broncos, who haven't beaten Kansas City since 1964, face perhaps the toughest assignment, against the Super Bowl Chiefs.

Dallas' Cowboys are prime to trip the Cardinals while the powerful Los Angeles Rams are expected to handle San Diego.

John Brodie, off to one of his best starts, hopes to lead the 49ers over Atlanta. Gary Cuozzo, who took over for Kapp at quarterback for the Vikings, faces a stern task against Green Bay.

Monday night shapes up as a dandy as the unbeaten Bears and Lions go at each other in a battle of fierce rivals.

It's Nolan and Ellis

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Apparently, opposing managers in the National League playoff weren't concerned with past performance when they chose starting pitchers for today's first game of the best-of-5 series.

Cincinnati skipper Sparky Anderson is going with Gary Nolan, who has never won a game at Pittsburgh, and Pirates' boss Danny Murtaugh is relying on Dock Ellis, who lost three times without a victory against the Reds this year.

Neither were Anderson and Murtaugh concerned over the possibility that the regular NL umpires were involved with the league in a money dispute and might be replaced by minor league arbiters. At least they said nothing about it.

The cold statistics aren't bothering either Nolan or Ellis. "I don't feel any different," said Nolan who posted an 18-7 record for the Western Division champion Reds. "I think the key to beating the Pirates is to keep the first two hitters off the bases, so if one of their power guys hits one, nobody is on."

Ellis, who won 13 and lost 10, says he's going to challenge the Reds' big bats with his money pitch—the fast ball.

"I've got to go out there and challenge them," said the 25-year-old Pirates' right-hander. "If I try to finesse them I'm in trouble. It's a new ball game. I've pitched against clubs before who have beaten me three times and I've won."

The Reds clinched the West Division title early, winning by 14 games, and played the final month without pressure. The Pirates, however, had to go to the final week before wrapping up the East. Anderson and Murtaugh were asked if this would have any bearing on the outcome.

"I don't think so," said Anderson, the Reds' rookie manager. "We realize the importance of this series and everybody is ready. There is no problem there. Incidentally, we won nine of our last 12. We have the best club in baseball and a good club isn't going to worry about this. It didn't have any affect last year. The Mets won early and whopped Atlanta three in a row."

Murtaugh was on the same opinion. He didn't think his club had momentum because of the tight finish. "I don't think that means a thing. Both clubs know what they're fighting for. That they (Reds) had it easy doesn't mean a thing."

The odds makers have made the Reds a slight favorite on the basis of their 102 regular season victories. Anderson has the leading home run hitter in the league in catcher Johnny Bench, 45; the top two RBI guys in bench, 148 and third baseman Tony Perez, 129; the league's leading base stealer in Bobby Tolan, 57; the top reliever in Wayne Granger, 35 saves; and Pete Rose, tied for No. 1 at getting base hits, 205.

The Pirates won their division with 89 victories and the lowest won-lost percentage in history, dropping the season series to the Reds 8-4. Murtaugh, however, feels he has the most under-rated team in baseball.

"I think this is a good club as there is in baseball," he said. "That 8-4 edge for the Reds doesn't mean a thing in a short series."

The Pirates received good news Friday when their best hitter, Roberto Clemente, tried out his sore back and reported he was free of pain. Murtaugh announced Clemente, who missed 18 of the Pirates' last 22 games, would be in right field. Clemente had a .352 average.

Pittsburgh is counting on outfielder Willie Stargell, who hit 31 homers, to provide the Pirates' power. Matty Alou, 297 Rich Hebner, 290 Manny Sanguillen, 325, and Bob Robertson, 287, 27 homers, make Murtaugh's team one of the top hitting clubs in baseball.

The first two games in the series are in Pittsburgh with the third, and fourth and fifth games if necessary, in Cincinnati. The winner meets the survivor of the American League playoff between Baltimore and Minnesota in the World Series.

Slump-Stricken Killer Twins Hope in Playoff

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP)—Minnesota's redemption-bent Twins pinned their pennant hopes on the broad shoulders of slump-stricken Harmon Killebrew today as they took on the favored Baltimore Orioles in the first game of the American League's best-of-5 championship series.

The Twins, seeking a reversal of their three-game playoff blitz at the hands of the Orioles a year ago, sent right-hander Jim Perry against southpaw Mike Cuellar in an opening match-up of 24-game winners.

A near-capacity crowd was expected at Metropolitan Stadium for the 4 p.m. EDT, game, a nationally-televised, attraction, NBC. The forecast was for seasonable weather with temperatures in the mid-50s.

Despite a possible boycott by umpires assigned to the playoff set, AL President Joe Cronin promised there would be an umpiring crew on hand for the opener. The umpires, seeking pay hikes for working the playoffs and World Series, were at an impasse in negotiations at Chicago.

Killebrew helped the West Division champions win seven of 12 regular-season meetings with Baltimore's runaway East Division kings this year. The brute-strong veteran clouted six of 41 home runs and had 13 RBI against the pitching-deep Orioles.

But the league's 1969 MVP has been short-circuited by less-er hurlers for the past two months, hitting just nine homers and delivering 28 runs since August, while his batting average dipped from .307 to .271. H. Still, Bill Rigney, the Twins' first-year skipper, expects a productive series from Killebrew, particularly with Dave McNally, another left-hander, set to pitch for the Orioles in Sunday's game.

"Killebrew is like a rattler," Rigney said Friday. "There's no warning. In this type of a situation, Harmon should be able to find the touch."

The Orioles managed to nullify Killebrew's game-breaking potential last October by pitching around him. He drew five walks in the first two games won by Baltimore 4-3 in 12 innings and 1-0 in 11. He got his lone hit, a double, in eight off-cial trips to the plate as the Orioles wrapped up the title with an 11-2 third-game romp.

This time, the Twins rely on Killebrew and hot-hitting Tony Oliva, who finished the season with a career-high .325 average, to provide the momentum for a coup.

"When they have to do it, they find some way," Rigney said of his 1-2 punch.

The Orioles, however, are explosive right through their starting lineup. Big Boog Powell and ever-dangerous Frank Robinson head a wrecking crew intent on earning another shot at the world championship they didn't win a year ago against the upstart New York Mets.

And with Cuellar, 24-game winner McNally and 20-game winner Jim Palmer starting the first three games, their pitching could again dominate the short series.

Rigney plans to start Tom Hall, a slim southpaw, and right-hander Bert Blyleven, a 19-year-old rookie, in games 2 and 3. Hall had 11 victories and Blyleven 10 in regular season play.

Orioles pilot Earl Weaver has a solid line of relievers behind his big three while Rigney can call on bullpen stoppers Ron Perranoski and Stan Williams.

The odds makers have installed the Orioles, winningest team in the majors with 108 regular season victories, as 3-2 favorites in the series, which shifts to Baltimore after Sunday's game.

Hunters who head for the Adirondack Mountains this fall can expect to find conditions much to their liking, according to a recent survey of woodsmen and guides in the area.

Their findings indicate an abundance of small game and plenty of deer and bear. Deer hunters should be especially fortunate. A successful breeding and rearing season and high levels of natural foods point to a potential harvest at least as good as last year when 15,256 white-tails were taken.

TO HELP DIRECT sportsmen to the region's public hunting areas, two special maps have been issued by the Coldbrook Associates, Box 855, Ithaca, N. Y. Both maps are sent free on receipt of 25 cents for postage and handling.

One is a full-scale reproduction of six topographical sheets as a continuous map that measures 38 by 36 inches. The other measures 8 1/2 by 11 inches and shows the main roads and trails of the Moose River Recreation Area, one of the state's most popular areas for wilderness hunters.

The large topographical map shows approximately 1,000 square miles of prime deer range in the heart of the Adirondacks. More than half of this consists of public lands open to hunting. These parcels are over-printed in color. Marked trails, lean-to shelters, public campsites and lookout towers are also indicated.

Consisting mainly of the Central Adirondacks, the large map includes the famous Moose River region of Hamilton County at its center. It encompasses territory about 20 miles to the east and west and 15 miles to the north and south of this region. The area covered stretches from Old Forge to Indian Lake and from Blue Mountain to Speculator.

JERRY WALTERS, a 32-year-old die setter and press operator in Port Jervis, who writes a Woodsman column in two Sullivan County newspapers, is featured in this month's issue of Outdoor Life in an article entitled "An Average Deer Hunt?"

Hunting almost in his backyard, Walters took a bear, a doe, and a buck in just 8 days. He describes his incredible luck in the story. When the deer season rolls around, he's gone for two weeks. He doesn't go far, though, for in his home county, Sullivan, are, of course, the foothills of the Catskills, one of the East's top deer areas.

WALTERS OPENED the 1968 season with five fruitless days near Calliroon. The next day, however, was to be his most memorable afield. At sunup he and three other hunters took stands near a field a few miles south of Monticello.

A rifle roared in the still woods and Walters ran to the top of a nearby knoll. Below him was a sight he couldn't believe—racing through the underbrush was a sizeable black bear! The author's first shot with his .30/06 sent the bear up a tree, and three brought it down to stay. The black weighed 209 pounds field-dressed and won the Bethel Businessmen's Association contest.

That happened on Nov. 23, a Saturday. The following Wednesday, Walters was walking a wood road near Glen Spey when a herd of 21 does barreled past him. Having a party permit, which allowed him to take a doe, he picked an old molly and killed her with one shot.

Walters' season wasn't over yet. As he hunted near Glen Spey the following Saturday, one of his companions spooked four deer toward him. The first two were does but the third had horns. As it went through an opening in pines 100 yards away, the author let fly and the spike buck piled up.

There's only one problem: what Walters ever can do for an encore?

Roger Praetorius Is Orange's Best Runner

SYRACUSE Trask was rated a question paign. Ill. Tom Myers and mark for the remainder of the Gary Bletches were also banged year, while Sposato was a up by Kansas and he was also doubtful starter for Saturday's rated a doubtful starter against game against Illinois at Cham-the Illini.

Roger Praetorius, the 6-3, 210 pound sophomore from Saugerties, has emerged as Syracuse University's leading ground gainer in the first two games of the 1970 season.

The former Saugerties High ace and All-Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL) all-star selection has carried 30 times for 158 yards and a robust 5.2 average as the workhorse of the troubled Orange squad.

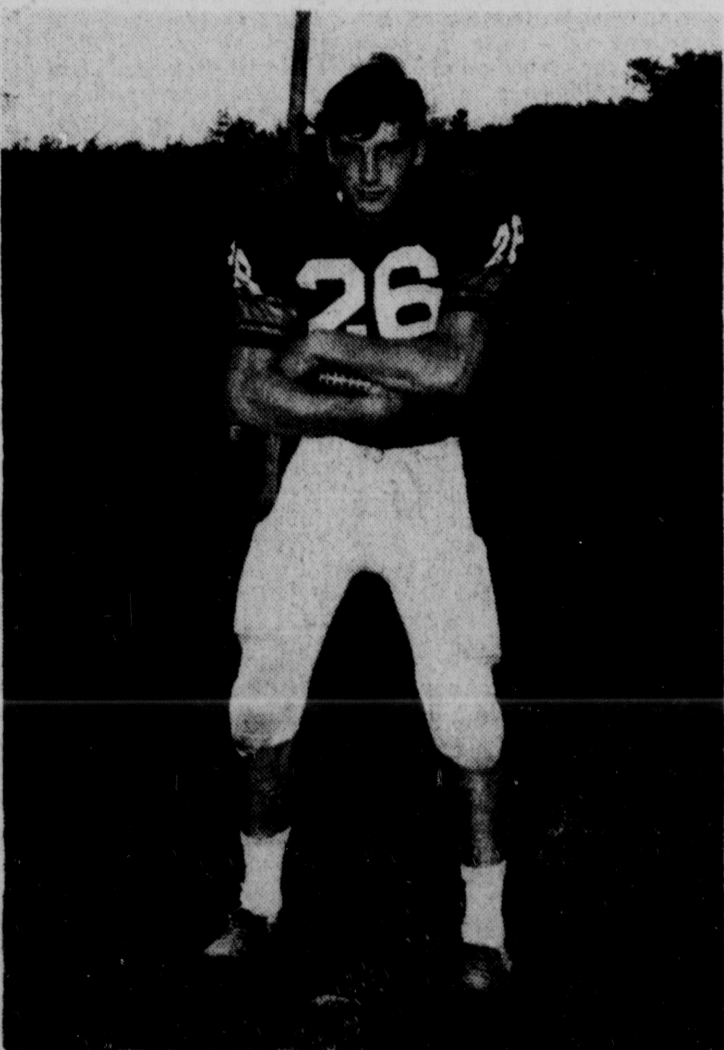

His one touchdown came on a 13-yard pass reception. Praetorius gained 95 yards in the opener in which Syracuse was defeated 42-15 by Houston and added 63 yards in the 31-14 defeat at the hands of Kansas.

John Rosella has a 5.3 average for seven carries. The runner-up to Praetorius is (Marty Januskiewicz, who has gained 78 yards in 27 carries for a 2.8 average.

Ton Gabriel has been the Orange's best pass receiver in the two games with six catches for 83 yards. The leading passer—Randy Zur—completed 11 of 22 attempts for 135 yards and a .500 pitching average.

Syracuse has been outshined by the opposition, 438 yards to 288 yards, giving Praetorius almost 55 per cent of the Orange total.

The Orange played without the services of defensive end Lou Gubitosa, offensive guard Ros Sposato and tailback Ron Trask in last week's loss to Kansas.

Giants and Jets Are Hand-Picked

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This could be the week for upsets in the National Football League when the ranks of the unbeaten could be reduced to the Los Angeles Rams, Detroit Lions, Minnesota Vikings and possibly the San Francisco 49ers.

It's a long weekend with two Saturday night games, 10 Sunday afternoon and the usual Monday night television feature. The Hand picker escaped with 8-4-1 last week to make it 15-10-1 for the year but form still is unsettled in the new merged league.

Here's the way it looks from this foggy perch.

Saturday night
Cleveland 23, Pittsburgh 10—Browns' air attack has to be hurting without Bill Nelsen but they have the big horses to do the job on the ground in Leroy Kelly and Bo Scott. Terry Bradshaw coming off a mild concussion and two losing games.

Miami 24, Oakland 21—Raiders are favored despite two tough struggles with Dolphins last year. Bob Griese hit with the big third down plays against Houston. Oakland defense has sagged against running game and yielded four scores on passes. Raiders still haven't found selves.

Sunday

Los Angeles 20, San Diego 10—A little blood may flow in this one between Southern California rivals. Rams are hurting for running backs and start Willie Ellison and Pat Curran. Chargers should get lift with return of Gene Foster but Rams defense should keep things under control.

Minnesota 30, Green Bay 14—Packers haven't beaten Vikings since 1967 and this isn't the time. With Bart Starr hurting it will be up to Don Horn to face the Purple Gang. Lots of luck.

St. Louis 28, Dallas 27—Maybe it's a mirage caused by MacArthur Lane's 146 yards against Washington but we're picking an upset win for the Cards. The Cowboys may blow somebody off the field one of these Sundays when they put it all together. Still trouble in Cowboy country.

San Francisco 24, Atlanta 21—Scared of this one but going along with John Brodie on a hot streak. That Dutchman just may have found the combo in Atlanta, which finds itself in the unfamiliar role of favorite.

Kansas City 30, Denver 17—Chiefs looked like the Super Bowl champs with all-out effort against Colts. Although Broncos are 2-0 for the season they have beaten Kansas City only once in 20 league starts and that was way back in 1964, and are still juggling quarterbacks.

Baltimore 21, Boston 17—This could be the place for an upset victory by the Pats because the Colts took a beating from Chiefs and must go without John Unitas. Unless Colts are demoralized Earl Morrall should pull them.

New York Jets 27, Buffalo 7—Jets care getting sharper and Bills are dragging with battered defense and stalled offense. Maybe Dennis Shaw can light a fire but you have to go with Joe Namath. Matt Snell and Emerson Boozer.

Houston 17, Cincinnati 14—Both won their openers and lost last week. Give the Oilers an edge on a solid quarterback and better defense against a team still looking for a successor to injured Greg Cook.

New York Giants 27, New Orleans 21—Some one of these days the Giants are going to hold up in the second half. This should be the day. The Saints have scored only three points in two games while giving up 40. Time for a big day from Fran Tarkenton.

Washington 24, Philadelphia 14—Sonny Jurgensen had only one TD pass in two games and that's way below average. Bombs away with the young Philadelphia secondary as the target.

Monday night

Detroit 20, Chicago 7—Lions are loaded, especially for Bears, in battle of two unbeaten teams in Eastern Conference. Mel Farr ready to do battle with Gale Sayers before home fans in Tiger Stadium. If Cecil Turner runs one kickoff back for a TD this time he must be Superman.

Bobby Mitchell Azalea Leader

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI)—Bobby Mitchell, who became a professional golfer at 15 in his hometown of Danville, Va., fired a blistering seven-under-par 64 Friday for a two-shot lead with a 12-under-par 130 at the midway point of the Azalea Open.

Mitchell's 36-hole total was the best score for two rounds on the tour this year as he sought the first victory of his career.

With his putter working like a magic wand, Mitchell needed his tremendous effort to stay ahead of defending champion Dale Douglass, who tied the course record with a 63 for a 132.

Deane Beman, who set the record on Thursday to take the first round lead, started with three straight birdies Friday to 11-under after 21 holes. But he finished even par 71 to fall four shots back with a 134. Also in at 134 were Hugh Royer, who fired a 66.

FULLBACK RICKY BUSHNELL of Ulster Academy moves in on the ball as Markus Gran and John Carlson follow the play in Academy's soccer opener against Rhinebeck Country Day School. The Academy's soccer team successfully launched the schedule with a 5-1 win. After yielding the first goal of the game, the Academy booters rallied with five of their own. Ulster's first score came midway in the first period on Keppy Wagner's free kick midway through the first quarter. Goals by leftwing John Carlson and Jay Siller put the Blue and White ahead, 3-1, at halftime. Wagner bagged his second goal on an assist from Carlson and the final goal for Coach Andy Smyth's booters came on a penalty kick by Carl Bright over the outstretched fingers of the Rhinebeck goalie.

Ickx Sets Record

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI)—Jacky Ickx's record-breaking 131.28 m.p.h. practice run was the mark to beat today as drivers enter the final four hours of qualifications for the Grand Prix of the United States.

Ickx set the record during the final hour of high-speed trials Friday. His bright red Ferrari smashed the old mark set last year by the late Jochen Rindt of Austria at 130.15 m.p.h. The competition for fast time will be sharper in the final session as 27 drivers battle for the 24 spots on the starting grid in Sunday's 200-mile race.

Ickx will also be trying to push his record higher in an attempt to hold on to the important pole position in the race. The young Belgian ace is the only driver with a mathematical chance of taking the championship from Rindt, who held a commanding lead in the series when he was killed in the Italian Grand Prix last month.

Ickx would finish one point ahead of Rindt if he won both the Glen race and the Mexican Grand Prix in two weeks. Any other winner in either race would mean that Rindt becomes the first driver in history to win the title posthumously.

Reigning world champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland posted the second fastest time of the day at 128.89 m.p.h. Stewart drove a Tyrrell-Ford. The new car made its debut two weeks ago at the Canadian Grand Prix and led for 32 laps before breaking an axle.

Stewart is considered the strongest challenger to the Ferrari team in the Glen race. Third fastest time was posted by Chris Amon of New Zealand in a March-Ford at 128.81 m.p.h.

Ickx's teammate, Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, was fourth at 128.77 m.p.h. Regazzoni, the rookie on the Ferrari team, posted an extremely fast time for a driver who had never before driven the Glen course.

Former world champion Graham Hill of England posted the fifth fastest at 127.76 m.p.h. This must also be considered fast for Hill, whose Lotus-Ford is two years older and therefore slower than most of the other cars in the field. Hill nearly lost his life in a crash on the Glen course a year ago—but is now fully recovered except for a slight limp.

Jackie Oliver of England in a BRM was sixth fastest at 127.42 m.p.h. Right behind him was Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil in a Lotus-Ford followed by Henri Pescarolo of France in a Matra.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 3, 1970

Consumer Key to Recovery

In a fairly optimistic forecast of business for 1971, the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh flatly stated that the key to recovery next year will be the consumer. "No spending spree appears in sight, but confidence should improve, and with it, retail business, particularly for hard goods," said Norman Robertson, vice president and chief economist, at the bank's 22nd annual Tri-State Conference of 800 bankers. The forecast included:

The nation's business will enjoy "moderate" growth in 1971, but some of this year's toughest problems, unemployment and still-not-killed inflation, will spill over into the first of the new year.

In current dollars, the U.S. Gross National Product (total output of goods and services) should reach $1,045 trillion, up nearly seven per cent from the $978 billion estimate for 1970.

Spending on defense will continue to drop in 1971 and expenditures on new plant and equipment will either drop slightly or merely hang level with this year's $80 billion estimate for 1970.

A revival of home building and some lift in confidence by inflation-fearing consumers, who have apparently been saving rather than spending this year, will buoy store sales.

While many industries will continue to be squeezed by higher labor costs, after-tax corporate profits in 1971 will gain 9.4 per cent over 1970.

The drawdown of inflation will take place slowly, if at all, and the general price index will rise at about four to four and one-half per cent through the middle of the year, then if all goes well, a further reduction to a three per cent rate in the second half.

As one of the earliest 1971 forecasts to come to our attention, the Mellon Bank's is moderate and sober, as befits the times.

How to Help Others

Anne David's "A Guide to Volunteer Services" (Cornerston Library, Inc.) is based on the premise that you help yourself by helping others. She began her volunteer services with Cub Scouts and P.T.A. But the opportunities for volunteer service are almost limitless.

There are the usual opportunities in Red Cross, League of Women Voters, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, community hospitals, and the like, which she describes. They are open in almost every community in the nation. Unusual volunteer work not only may be adapted here and elsewhere, but may suggest others that can be found at home.

For instance, Kiwanians in Phoenix set up a counseling service in response to a judge's concern for lack of appropriate facilities to advise juvenile delinquents. Work assignments were found for them related to their own problems—reckless drivers were assigned to hospital work with traffic accident victims; vandals were put to work in cleanup and repair work in parks and playgrounds.

There are many variations—home aids to do errands for shut-ins, residents of a nursing home check by telephone on the safety and lonely hours of the elderly, senior high school students involved in community affairs, etc., etc. The idea is to be occupied helping others. If you have the time, the rewards are sometimes more wholly satisfying than pay.

Inflation's Pulse

The latest government taking of the economic temperature reveals that the rising cost of living is slowing down. That is, it's still going up, but not as fast as before.

Which is remindful of the answer given by the man who was asked if he had stopped beating his wife:

"Not yet, but I'm not hitting her as hard as I used to."

Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair's suit to prevent astronauts from praying and reading the Bible in space "approaches absurdity," the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held, in rejecting her appeal. Mrs. O'Hair was successful in banning prayer from schools, which has not helped the moral climate, but she overreached herself when she tried to enjoin astronauts from praying on their bold adventure.

President Nixon is making his second tour of Europe in his first term of office. Of the four heads of government he visited on his earlier trip, none remains in office now—deGaulle in France, Wilson in Britain, Kiesinger in West Germany and Rumor in Italy. At least, our chief executives serve out their terms of office unless removed by death.

While not advocating that the automobile be outlawed in the center city, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe says its days are numbered and it will have to be regulated much more stringently. He prefers safe public transportation. It is the only alternative to traffic congestion.

Henry J. Taylor Says Greece Is Ripe for Plucking

ATHENS—Greeks have been hurting Greeks since time immemorial, and the Greeks have always had a saying that it's better to know the judge than to know the law. Danger had hung over this lovely place for so long it had become absolutely commonplace. But order is the order of the day in today's "government of the colonels." Emigrants warning tourists that it is unsafe to come to Greece are dealing (as they well know) in a bald faced lie.

There is not a section of this country that conceivably could be safer for an ordinary visitor.

The safety extends from the most-crowded districts of the cities to even the remote, ancient troglodyte houses built in the cliffsides during the Turkish occupation, and many of which are still occupied. This, of itself, has great popular appeal—as it might in our own country—in the population that the "government of the colonels" rules. For these same fine people who invented democracy have often shown an affinity for another perennial—namely chaos.

As one result, U. S. Ambassador Henry J. Tascas finds it significant and encouraging that the ordinary Greeks are increasing their savings deposits by leaps and bounds. Here more than a million Greeks now have savings accounts—an increase of 400,000 in the past three years. These have grown to represent more than half of the nation's entire bank deposits.

This can only be regarded as individual votes of confidence by the people in the country's stability. It is the first time that has happened in postwar Greece.

While the stock market in our country has been going down for a year and a half as, indeed, in most of the world—the average index of industrial shares on the Athens exchange is up to 46 per cent this year and has climbed 140 per cent since 1968.

In 1967 Greece's gross national product increased 4.8 per cent, in 1968 it increased 5.5 per cent, last year it increased 8.5 per cent, and the economists at the University of Athens tell me they expect the 1970 increase to exceed 10 per cent.

In fact, next to Japan, the economic advance here in the past three years has been greater than any reporting country in the world.

Domestically, this NATO-member country is not too worried about enemy Tito in neighboring Yugoslavia. Gen. Odysseus Angelis makes it plain that the Yugoslavs are busy worrying about the Hungarians. Actually, and surprisingly, the eye of the Greek army is on Bulgaria.

Behind the adjoining Bulgarian frontier, and aimed at Greece, the Kremlin has gradually and quietly built and equipped new and growing forces that outnumber General Angelis' command.

These represent today a powerful concentration of the Kremlin's construction of combat units among the Warsaw Pact countries, designed to overshadow the effect of NATO.

Our own U. S. intelligence here confirms that Bulgaria's infantry is now highly mobile, and new tank formations are constantly entering service. Also, the Bulgarian air force is receiving the best fighter and bomber planes being used by the Soviet air force itself and joint maneuvers are a regular thing.

The morale in the Greek army is high. That fact is not disputed here. But the equipment is sparse and thus the defense capability is very limited. On the air side the same applies, even though we assist in the training.

Greece's naval force is largely assigned to submarine operations in its NATO responsibility. But the submarines are antiquated American and British vessels, and our own NATO chiefs take a dim view of the Greek effectiveness in this role.

Moreover, a bad mixture of foreign purchases contaminates the effectiveness of the country's armed forces as a whole. French-built tanks and planes are mixed with British-made artillery and American-built equipment in a hodgepodge that nearly defies logistic support or combat refurbishing.

Admittedly, the entire body of Greece's armed forces now could not restrain an attack by the Bulgarian armed forces alone for more than two or three days.

Economically, Greece is on the high road. Militarily—which is our concern—this lovely land is ripe for the plucking.

Senator Gore Fights Surge Of His Republican Opponent

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (NEA)—The sight and sound of an old warhorse like Sen. Albert Gore fighting for survival is really something else. He is full of the talk of struggle as he tries to overcome the evident lead of his GOP opponent, Rev. William E. Brock III.

Listen to Gore:

"I not only vote Democratic. I fight Democratic. I take the floor and win. I'm taking the (Nixon) southern strategy head-on. I've accepted the challenge. . . . If I had tried to stick a feather in the breeze on damaging votes against the war and against two southern judges named but beaten for the Supreme Court, I'd be in trouble. But I'd be in trouble either way, and I prefer it my way."

There's much more like this. The veteran Tennessee liberal, surely the top target in President Nixon's determined bid to win more Senate seats for the Republicans rips into the 40-year-old Brock as if he were the worst "stand-still" candidate in history.

Gore constantly rattles off a list of some 50 congressional issues, mostly affecting education, health, housing, urban development, rural aid, on which he says Brock voted "no" while he and virtually every other Tennesseean in Congress voted favorably.

The senator fumes:

"He's the legislative odd-ball, not Albert Gore."

The senator insists, too, that Brock is making a lot of mistakes, a prime example of his unproved charge that Gore managed to get part of an interstate highway diverted through his farmland via a route that required the building of seven costly extra bridges.

"We're still exploring that," is what Brock says today.

Yet with all of his survival fever, Gore can't shake off his difficulties. He has no real organization, having merely borrowed that of the late Sen. Estes Kefauver in his early Senate victories. Though Charles Guggenheim has provided him with some superb television materials (a checkers game and a warm encounter with an aging friend in his hometown court-house square), the senator is $100,000 short of what he needs to display these exhibits properly.

It doesn't help him, either, that Gov. Buford Ellington is providing no real support or that Hudley Crockett, the former Ellington aide who got 45 per cent of the primary vote against Gore, is merely making faint "I'm for the ticket" noises.

Gore's working of the populist vein in his stress on Brock's record probably will win him Middle Tennessee, including maybe half of the vote George Wallace got in 1968 while taking Nashville.

But, with three Eastern Tennessee districts rated solidly Republican (Brock thinks he needs 65 per cent there to be off and running), the true battleground is in Memphis and the two surrounding congressional districts ranging from Mississippi to Kentucky. Crockett smashed Gore here in the primary. Most experts feel that despite the helping potential of 50,000 favorable black votes, the senator will lose the Memphis area. And he is in perilous shape in the heavily rural 7th and 8th Districts.

They can vote Republican. GOP Sen. Howard Baker took the 7th in 1966 while gaining 12 of the total of 28 counties in these two zones.

Voters there should have been pleased when Gore voted against the major 1964 civil rights bill, but President Johnson, its author, outdid the senator in winning a Tennessee margin that year by 50,000 votes.

Jack Anderson Says Shady Dealer Is Endorsed By Distinguished Republicans

WASHINGTON—A host of distinguished Republicans, including President Nixon and Vice President Agnew, have given glowing political endorsements to Malcolm Smith, Jr., a self-made Long Island businessman with a record for shady dealing.

The wealthy Smith is seeking to unseat Democrat Otis Pike in New York's first congressional district.

Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., has praised Smith's "integrity and convictions." Sen. Peter Dominic, R-Colo., echoes: "I admire the way Malcolm Smith has conducted his affairs in the past."

Presumably, they were unaware of a recent Federal Communications Commission ruling that two 15-minute "programs," produced by Smith's company, were nothing but raw advertising disguised as programming.

The commission ruled that any station broadcasting the shows would have to count the time as purely commercial. Thereupon, the FCC referred the matter to the Federal Trade Commission for further investigations.

It isn't the first time Smith has been in hot water with federal regulatory agencies. Twice before, investigations by the FTC have forced him to stop promoting products marketed by Smith's company.

One is a portfolio of art reproductions, the other a pair of record albums. To promote the products, the company produced two 15-minute broadcasts entitled "10 Paintings" and "Great Moments in Music." The shows were punctuated with commercials for the reproductions and recordings.

After receiving complaints from bored listeners, the FCC investigated. "We find that both the programs were entirely commercial," the commission found in July.

Self-Trimming Grass

Earlier, the FTC had looked into a product called "Kem-Kut" which Smith advertised as a miracle lawn chemical that would both enrich the grass and stunt its growth.

Promised the ads for Kem-Kut: "TRIM YOUR LAWN JUST ONCE A YEAR WITH NOTHING BUT A WATERING CAN KEEPS GRASS FROM GROWING TALLER! MAKES IT THICKER, GREENER!"

The FTC found, however, that Kem-Kut made crabgrass spread like wildfire and, when applied in quantity, turned lawns brown. The commission sternly ordered Loamium Co. to stop using the ads, which Smith had written.

Not long thereafter, the FTC began probing "Poundex," another Smith product, billed as a miracle to help the customer gain weight. This time, no order was needed. Smith's company quietly agreed to stop making a number of inflated claims about the product.

Despite his brushes with the government, this 20th century snake-oil salesman has had no trouble getting support from President Nixon and Vice President Agnew. Nixon sent him a personal letter of endorsement which said: "We must have the best available men and women in the Congress." Agnew also came through with a letter of praise.

Footnote: Reached by this column, Smith insisted his dealings were no reflection on his abilities as a public servant. "If I thought I had done anything wrong," he added, "I wouldn't have run." He pointed out that in the "Poundex" case, the FTC had never formally found him guilty of anything and the matter had been settled by a "stipulation."

Nixon's Political Views

President Nixon has been positively buoyant, in his private conversations, over Republican prospects in November.

His two savvy political aides, Murray Chotiner and Harry Dent, consider the congressional elections still a toss-up. Most races are so close, they have advised the President, that a slight last-minute shift in voter sentiment could determine the outcome.

A gain or loss of 2 to 3 per cent, they believe, could win Republican control of Congress or increase the Democratic majority. Or the November result may merely be a stand-off.

U. S. Strategy in Drug War 'Brain-Drain' of Dope Rings

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

What is now abundantly clear is that some of the major lessons learned the hard way in Vietnam in antiguerrilla war are now being applied in President Nixon's attack on the vicious groups who peddle narcotics and other dangerous drugs.

These internationally based organizations have many guerrilla characteristics—in their type of organization and in their combined "military," economic, propaganda and bribery operations. Like the guerrillas, they are also protected by the fear or "loyalty" of their victims, protected sometimes out of shame by the families of their victims and by the officials they bribe.

As with the Viet Cong in Vietnam, they are protected, too, by the fact that their victims and the rank and file in their organization know that they, too, have broken the law and therefore cannot expose the organization without exposing themselves to punishment by the law and, in some cases to death by a gang enforcer.

What is being attempted now in the United States is something very close in concept to the much-publicized Operation Phoenix in South Vietnam, which seeks to identify and take out of action the key Viet Cong-North Vietnamese underground political, economic, propaganda and military leadership in the south in order to cut the heart out of the Hanoi invasion.

Here in the United States, a combination of major federal agencies, in co-operation with state and local governments, has been making a concerted effort over the past months to identify the major illegal organizations dealing in narcotics and other dangerous drugs and their connections and associates in the United States and other countries and to learn the key personnel of those organizations.

Strangely enough, except for bits and pieces, the facts on these groups have not been known with certainty in the past. There were bits and pieces of data and large amounts of conjecture and rumor but not the concrete knowledge necessary for effective government action.

Instead of attempting to catch every user, every pusher and every local wholesaler, the objective is to find the men who are key links in administration, in distribution, in import and in processing

(whether these links are in the United States or in Europe, Latin America, Asia or the Middle East) and to then find ways to immobilize those key men.

(A key man jailed for assault and battery is as much out of circulation, though perhaps not as long, as one arrested for dope distribution. And assault and battery may be much easier to prove.)

As a result of the preliminary intelligence gathering, it is now believed that nine major national-international organizations import and distribute a heavy percentage of the illicit dangerous drugs in the United States.

These nine are known to have bases in most major U. S. cities and in a spread of foreign countries. They possibly account for 80 per cent of the heroin and almost 100 per cent of the cocaine, tons of marijuana and millions of dosage units of other dangerous drugs.

One of the nine is an organization of Spanish ethnic background scattered through the United States. These men secure heroin and cocaine from Spanish-speaking criminal organizations in Latin America and Spain.

This system accounts for almost all of the illicit cocaine trafficking here and for ever-increasing amounts of heroin.

The Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs has reason to believe that the hub of this operation is in the large Cuban immigrant colony in Miami. Relationships have been identified in New York, Chicago and other major cities from coast to coast where Cuban colonies exist.

The Cuban migration after the Castro take-over was large throughout the United States and the world. Part of this migration consisted of criminals already engaged in

The president, however, believes the issues are breaking in his favor. Here is his personal assessment:

Middle East—He hoped his Mideast peace initiative would give him the image of a peacemaker before the November election. But even if the outlook should darken, he believes a majority of Americans will unite behind the President in a crisis. He has emphasized in his private discussions, however, that the American people definitely don't want U.S. troops to become involved in any Mideast fighting.

Vietnam War—Nixon feels the war no longer is a critical issue with the people. In his view, the war is by no means popular, but a majority are satisfied with his pull-out pace. He doesn't believe they want him to accept a humiliating settlement. As a pre-election gesture, he plans to announce another troop withdrawal and to claim progress with his program to Vietnamize the war. All this, he believes, will defuse his anti-war critics and take the fire out of the Vietnam issue.

Economy—The President believes the economic decline hasn't hurt many Americans. Their alarm has been aroused, he feels, more over what might happen than what is happening to their pocketbooks. He is convinced that an economic upswing has already started, and he will do his best to point this out to the voters before the election.

Social Unrest—The President thinks most Americans want to do something about the problems of poverty, pollution and peace, which have aroused the younger generation. But he is also certain that a majority want peaceful, constructive solutions. In short, he believes the American people favor social, military and political reforms but oppose disruptions, demonstrations, violence and crime. Even a majority of students, he thinks, want order on the campuses.

With these views as his guide, President Nixon hopes to hold his administration to the middle of the road.

Cuban cocaine trafficking. After fleeing Cuba, they expanded their operations by setting up relationships with established European heroin traffickers.

Their smuggling operations have a built-in major advantage, an ability to fully exploit traffic routes for cocaine and heroin into the United States through Central and South America and the Caribbean.

Some 166 members of the operation have been arrested in recent months in nine major U. S. cities.

Three more of the nine major illegal drug distributing operations in this country are managed by Cosa Nostra type organizations in Canada and Italy.

Close ties also exist between these particular Italian ethnic groups and criminal groups in France, which gives them a capability of delivering multikilogram quantities of heroin into the United States.

Another one of the nine big distributors is an international organization probably responsible for the importation of more illegal heroin than any other single group. Unlike some of the others, it is not organized on ethnic lines.

A sixth major illegal narcotics and drugs group specializes in controlling large amounts of European and Mexican heroin, cocaine and marijuana coming into the United States from Mexico. If several thousand key men can be identified in the nine operations the government is now investigating and if a major portion of these men can be taken out of action, the heart of the illegal narcotics and dangerous drugs operation would be cut.

With an alert antidrug corps it might be a long time before the underground could again build up today's large and exceedingly dangerous traffic.

Fall Program for Everyone

A full program of activities is on the fall agenda at the local YMCA with something for everyone.

James Lapak, program director of the YMCA, announced today that registrations are now being taken for the Y's fall programs. Classes which begin Monday, Oct. 5, include yoga, modern dance, lifesaving and men's fitness. All four programs will be held on a 10-week basis and all are led by well-qualified instructors.

The lifesaving class is open to all members who are able to swim 1/4 of a mile using four strokes. Both YMCA and Red Cross Certification will be given to those students who complete the course. The class is held from 7 until 9 p.m. on Mondays.

Two classes of yoga will be offered. One class will meet on Monday evenings from 7 p.m. to 8:15 and the other will meet both Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10 to 11:15 a.m. These classes will be taught by Richard Fleisher who studied at Integral Yoga Institute.

Fleisher said that practitioners of yoga feel that the proper practice of yoga relieves the tensions and stresses of today's existence, and is an excellent way to learn control of the body.

Modern Dance, a new program for high school and adult members, will begin at 7 p.m. Monday. This program will be led by an experienced teacher who studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and the Eric Hawkins Studio in New York City. A new means of self-expression, grace and agility will be the program's aims for development in each individual through Modern Dance.

Also beginning on Oct. 5 at 5:30 p.m. will be another session of the men's cardiovascular and fitness program at the Y.

Lapak said that there is still some room in most of the Y's fall programs for those youngsters who would like to join to day. Programs range from swimming instruction to guitar lessons, with an activity for every graders are in for their recreational gym and swim on Fridays, and junior high boys have the Y gym and pool on Tuesdays, with the junior high girls taking over on Thursday afternoons.

The YMCA swim team has also begun their workouts, and new members are always welcome. Those interested in obtaining further information should call or stop in at the YMCA today. The YMCA is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest, and is at 507 Broadway.

Test Write Answers

By LEI

In grade school and in the first years of high school most students find that if they study their subjects (or sometimes even if they don't) it's relatively easy to give the "right" answers to test and homework questions. After all, to oversimplify the situation, two plus two can equal four, and c-a-t certainly spells "cat."

These same students are sometimes confronted with swindling grades in high school or college when they meet their first teacher who isn't asking them what two plus two equals, but why it equals that sum and not another. They wince when faced with a teacher who wants a definition of "cat," instead of the spelling. Tests suddenly contain questions where "the answer isn't in the book" or problems that are seemingly difficult to understand.

If you find that you're tackling too many taxing tests, there are a few guidelines that ought to help you make the grades. If you haven't encountered this difficulty yet, cut this out and save it for a year or two, because you will. (The inability of students to answer "abstract questions" is fated high on the list of difficulties confronting beginning college students. If it's any comfort, many educators are recommending this approach be used from the time students enter the grades, better preparing them for higher education. Either it will do that, or we'll have a lot of kindergarten dropouts.)

If you encounter a question in your homework that doesn't seem to have any bearing on the facts you've just been studying, the first step toward a good answer is to carefully read the question. You probably think you already have, but if it seems difficult it may be because most questions are easier to answer when we know exactly what information they want. One common question of this type, for example, may ask the cause, direct or indirect, of some effect that you have been studying. You will be somewhat on your own as far as figuring out "the right answer." You may not have studied any right answer in so many words—there may not be any cut-and-dried correct response. The teacher may be interested in learning your reasoning on the topic, and how well you can organize your thinking on the subject.

In that case, you might be asked "what causes a blush?" during science class, studying blood circulation. The answer may not be given in your textbook, but if you've studied the facts concerning blood vessel dilation and the role of adrenalin, you should have little difficulty with the answer. There may not be a list of the direct and indirect causes of World War I in your text, but from the information there, you ought to be able to compile a list of most of the indirect and all the direct causes of the war. Some of the former depend on your interpretation of the facts, and not even expert historians can agree on all the causes.

The answer to another very common type of abstract question calls for a definition. Remember the definition of a good definition—a definition is a statement containing all the information, and no more, necessary to distinguish the object of the definition from others. In writing a direct definition, remember to mention the word being defined and the general classification into which it belongs. Guard against the tendency to over-define.

For example, a triangle is a geometric figure which has either three sides, or three angles—it is unnecessary to mention both in one definition, since a figure on one plane can hardly have three angles and two or four sides! This is the type of analytical thinking that may make you feel as though you are turning prematurely grey, but the head improves with use—no brain was ever worn out by thinking!

It is important, if possible to have some idea of why the teacher asked a particular question. Was the object to find out how much you knew on the subject, or to find out how keen your reasoning and expression are? If the answer to the question depends on your opinion, don't give a phony opinion just because you think it is one the teacher will agree with—she might agree you're a cop-out instead! However, be prepared to back your opinion with orderly thinking and facts that match your conclusions.

Abstract questions aren't easy, but they are the type that will lead you into a better understanding of the subject—and sometimes of yourself. This, after all, is the reason for education, not the high grades so easy to obtain with "simple" questions.

Prisma Drive Starts

KINGSTON The annual Prisma magazine drive conducted by Kingston High School girls is set to start Oct. 8 and will continue through Oct. 28.

Proceeds of the annual campaign provide funds for scholarships. Last year's drive made possible seven $500 scholarships for June graduates Kim Brodhead, Dianna Clark, Susan Englander, Debra Gallo, Mary Moran, Margaret O'Reilly and Deborah Woodward. An additional scholarship of $100 went to Sharon Maggiore. Renewals of expiring magazine subscriptions as well as new personal and gift subscriptions may be made through any girl student at no additional cost to the subscriber than if ordered through the publisher directly.

The Prisma girls urge residents to help in the project by planning to say "Yes" to canvassers who will call at their homes during the two-week drive. Anyone not contacted who wishes to arrange for participation may contact the guidance office at the high school. Salesmanship ability will carry rewards for Prisma girls who sell at least $50 worth of subscriptions. Passing that goal makes them eligible for Tuskie, the plush elephant will be on display at KHS during the drive as added incentive to increase sales. Winner will be selected at the end of the subscription campaign from all those who get by the $50 mark in sales. The cause is worthy and the salesmen enthusiastic, so it can be expected that this year's Prisma subscription drive will top all previous efforts.

Youth in the News Elect

Leaders are coming to the fore in the school scene as the semester gets into full swing.

Plans stretch all the way to June in some cases. Serving as yearbook coordinator and receptionist on the staff of Photo Workshop at its new studio, 8 John Street, is Patricia Ann Dickerson. At Kingston High School she is a senior editor of the 1971 Maroon, the yearbook, under the guidance of Don Avallone, advisor.

In addition to her yearbook activities, Patricia Ann is captain of the Twirlers at KHS, a member of the executive council of Tri-Hi and a member of the Art Club.

Following the line of her creative interest, she looks forward to attending a fashion school after graduating with the Class of '71. Meanwhile she is helping at the Photo Workshop in guiding customers in mode of dress and make-up for portraits.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dickerson, Patricia Ann and her family reside at 77 Clinton Avenue.

Early fall elections have singled out leaders for various organizations throughout the country. At New Paltz, the Senior High Youth Fellowship of the Reformed Church recently chose its slate for the coming season.

Mary Cornwell is president, assisted by Patti Gardner, secretary; Lina Bartow, treasurer. Class representatives are Lucy Taylor, senior; Jill Goodrich, junior; Cyndy Holliday, sophomore and Leslie Holliday, freshman.

Elections at Ulster County Community College have determined the leadership of the Student Government Organization for the coming year.

Mini, Midi, Maxi? Help Is on the Way

Around 55 B.C. Julius Ceasar was heard to say, "Veni, Vidi, Vici!" (I came, I saw, I conquered!) But in the now Age of Aquarius, the more familiar cry is a question, "Mini, Midi, Maxi?"

With fashions in a transitional stage, young women are looking for help in deciding how to spend their clothing dollar. More than 350,000 of them are getting the help they need by participating in the national 4-H dress revue program.

Extension Service personnel emphasize that the program provides more than ideas of what to wear. It teaches fashion awareness, gives tips on good grooming, hair style, makeup, choosing the right accessories and how to acquire poise and self-confidence.

Simplicity Pattern Co. Inc. is national donor in the program and offers support and assistance in numerous ways. One of the company's recent aids to decision-making is a sample wardrobe called "Computer Fashions—Fall '70." Using the language of EDP, the wardrobe shows how materials and proper length can be used to the best advantage—be it mini, midi, maxi or even "mimi" National 4-H Dress Revue.

Theme of this year's national revue is "Fashion EXPLO!" Simplicity's 4-H stylists provide fashion consultation and technical assistance at local, county and state dress revues. Girls participating in dress revue not only learn what's right for them in today's fashions but are eligible for county and state recognition awards provided by the company. Last year 25,000 teenagers received county medals of honor.

State winners receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress being held in Chicago Nov. 29 through Dec. 3 where they will model in the Taking a trip? asks Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Vacationing families who literally live out of their cars for days at a time are faced with the dilemma of what to take along, what to pack it in, and how to load it for maximum convenience and minimum damage or wrinkling.

You're off to a good start if you make a checklist of the items you want to take along. Start the list a week or so before takeoff so you can add to it as you think of items you will need. When it's time to pack, go lightly. Plan to take enough changes of clothing to avoid frequent stops at laundrettes. But don't get bogged down with more than you can keep in good order or sort through quickly to locate something.

The following tips might be helpful to you:

Pack a separate bag for each member of the family. In it put personal wear, toothbrushes and other overnight toilet articles. Packing and taking charge of their own bags is fun for school-age children. Sneak a quick check into each bag yourself, or someone will turn up without pajamas or socks.

For containers to hold your travel gear, anything goes by car. Large suitcases are not easy to handle or to fit into car trunks. Duffel bags are the choice of some families — and these can be stuffed into odd spaces in the car trunk, like those around the spare tire.

Square plastic laundry baskets work well for packing children's clothing, plus extra dishtowels and towels for use at the cottage. Two baskets fit nicely into the trunk. By the time they arrive back home, the two laundry baskets are filled with soiled clothing, the whites in one, colored in the other.

Clothes will wrinkle less if left on the hangers. Lay them across the top of the trunk's contents and put an old sheet over the garments for protection. Hanging cuts down on wrinkles so if possible hang the garment bag on a back seat coat hook with the lower half resting on the seat, or dangle clothes on a telescoping clothes rod.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary Luncheon And Workshop Here

The Auxiliary of the Kingston Hospital will hold its first regular meeting for this year, on Tuesday Oct. 6 in the Nurse's Residence on Broadway.

Changing from the usual format of an evening meeting, the Auxiliary Board will host an informal luncheon, in conjunction with a workshop program for new and prospective members, as well as those volunteers already involved in a service, but desiring to learn more about the other projects supported by the Auxiliary.

A short general business meeting will precede the activities, which will commence at 11:30 a.m. Mrs. Norman R. Schwabkopf will represent the Board as hostess for the luncheon, and will be assisted by Mrs. Gerald McCabe, first vice president, who is coordinating the many areas of service to be presented by each chairman.

Mrs. Karl Pitcock, Director of Volunteers, will address the members with respect to her position, and the many and varied duties it involves.

With a membership of nearly 500, all services were maintained during the summer months, with the assistance of the Candy Strippers, under the direction of Miss Marguerite Meyer.

Any interested area woman eager to learn more about the Auxiliary and the Kingston Hospital, is invited to attend Tuesday's activities from 11:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Reception Held For Ulster Academy Families, Faculty

The home of the Headmaster R.A. Nelson in Old Hurley was the scene for a reception for the families of new students this year at Ulster Academy. The reception was also attended by members of the faculty.

Among the more than 50 guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Mercer of Saugerties, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Wise, Mrs. Kelsey Jacober, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hansen of Woodstock, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Turco, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Kearney, Mrs. Helmut Hoppe, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur London, and Dr. and Mrs. Milton Grover from Kingston, together with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Scheffler from Red Hook in addition to members of the Ulster Academy faculty. Mr. and Mrs. George Hutton and Mrs. Eugene Berardi attended the reception as parents to new students and as members of the Academy Board of Trustees.

Rain forced a planned outdoor reception indoors around the fireplace, where parents and faculty enjoyed light refreshments and lively conversation.

The Academy has enrolled 30 new students this year including a number of families who were unable to attend the afternoon reception. An open house for all the school's families is scheduled for October following the popular back-to-school night in which parents go through their youngsters' class day from period to period.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My hair is at least seven-inches long.

On the nights I wash my hair, I have to sleep in rollers and detest it.

So, my mom got gussy and found a solution to my roller problem.

She took some barrettes about two-and-a-half-inches long and used these to curl my hair.

She does this by rolling a portion of my hair around her two index fingers. Then she slips the barrette into the rolled curl to secure it. This works like magic and I don't have to sleep on those "Skull-crushing" rollers.

Jamie Snider

Dear Heloise:

Here's an idea for a cute hanger for your pot holders! Take a wooden spoon, paint it a color to go with the decor in your kitchen. Then insert several cuphooks in the spoon handle.

Hang the spoon on the wall and put your pot holders on the cuphooks.

Just a little something different.

Mrs. B. Ryalls

Area Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Longto of 179 Glen Street, Kingston, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a dinner dance at the 11 Meter C. B. Radio Club on Saturday, Sept. 26.

Married Sept. 29, 1945 by the late Rev. Arthur Cole, their attendants were Mary Arnold Kirby and Walter Lemister. Mrs. Longto is the former Vivian Denis and is employed as a cook in the Kingston School Lunch Program. Her husband is a longtime employee of Hutton Brick Company, now the Jova Manufacturing Company.

Approximately 100 relatives, friends and members of the radio club attended the gala. The honored couple received a money tree from club members.

Mr. and Mrs. Aartsen N. VanWagenen and Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Stutz of Poughkeepsie celebrated their 25th and 30th wedding anniversaries, respectively, at the home of the VanWagenen's on Dutchess Turnpike on Sunday, Sept. 27. Mr. VanWagenen formerly resided in Kingston and is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. H.P. VanWagenen of John Street.

More than 135 guests attended the event.

Recent Wedding

Mass. The Rev. Stephen Brown officiated.

Miss Judith Warshaw was the maid of honor and Gordon Lambert served as best man.

Dear Abby

Don't Feel Guilty

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am ashamed to write this letter, but I won't have any peace of mind until I have somebody's opinion.

Last Sunday I went to the train station to meet a friend. I was early so I started walking around. I noticed a middle-aged man between 45 and 55 following me. I really wasn't frightened because there were a lot of people around, but I thought if I went into a telephone booth and pretended to make a call he would go away. When I came out of the phone booth he was waiting for me. Then he asked if he could buy me a soft drink. I snarled, "Beat it, Buddy or I'll call a cop."

He took off without a word, but Abby, he had such a hurt look on his face. Now I'm sorry I was so mean to him. I'm usually not like that. How should I have handled this? I got to thinking that maybe he was just a poor lonely old man trying to be friendly to another human being.

GUilty IN CHICAGO

DEAR GUILTY: And maybe he was just trying to pick you up. Don't feel guilty. Perhaps you were a bit gruff, but I think you were wise for discouraging him.

DEAR ABBY: My wife wears a blond wig when she goes to business which makes her look 20 years younger.

I think she looks real neat in that wig, however, when she comes home, the first thing she does is take her wig off!

What I want to know is—don't I count? Why should a woman not care how she looks in front of her husband, but she tries to look very special in front of other people?

Don't you think she should wear her blond wig at home, too?

HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: It's obvious that you have never worn a wig. (It's a little like a girdle. It feels so good when you take it off.) Cheer up. It's what's underneath that counts.

DEAR ABBY: Many young people write and ask if they should "go all the way" to prove their love, and the various other names applied to enjoying the privileges of marriage without accepting any of the responsibilities. May I tell my story?

On Easter Sunday evening, back in 1942, I then a young Naval officer, sat in my car on Rock Creek Parkway, directly behind the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C. With me was a young government stenographer whom I had been dating seriously for several months.

Even though today's young people will think this was back in the Dark Ages, the desires of men and women haven't changed much since Adam and Eve. As the evening progressed with much hugging and passionate kissing, we both grew increasingly excited, when she suddenly drew away from me and said "I am deeply in love with you, and I hope you feel the same about me, but if we don't stop right now I will hate you for what you will have done to me and you will abandon me because there will be nothing left. Whether I marry you or someone else, I will have broken a promise I made to myself that I would present my body to my husband in the same condition in which God brought me into this world. Now, please take me home."

All that night I thought about what she had said. Then I realized that she was not just another conquest. We were married in June, the following year. She kept her promise to herself, and I helped her.

Now, 28 years later, we have four wonderful children, and we still find each other mutually thrilling—and thrilling.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Thanks for sharing your experience with me and my readers. (Girls, commit that stenographer's speech to memory. It's beautiful. And practical, too.)

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Some Notable TV Developments

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Some days you're just lucky. Just as I was struggling with a lead paragraph for this piece, in came the following announcement from NBC-TV:

"For the first time in history, the World Series will be broadcast in the Chinese language by the China Television Co. This play-by-play telecast will be transmitted via delayed tape, in color, to all of Taiwan."

Beautiful. Absolutely beautiful. Who could have dreamed up a lead paragraph with such exotic dimension? One other point: There is positively no truth to the rumor that the play-by-play will be handled by Buddy Hackett and Howard Cosell.

Well, of course, other things are happening in television too. For example, the preparation for the coming boom in video cassettes—one of the most significant developments in show business history—continues to build impressively.

Video cassettes are small audio-visual cartridges of entertainment and informational material that viewers will be able to play through standard television sets. They will be played either through a cassette slot that comes built into video sets (probably in the future; or, more immediately, on small units—machines—connected simply to the antenna outlets of today's television sets.

At any rate, consider the significance of these developments:

—Item: "Variety" reports that "the eighth congress of the International Federation of Actors ... unanimously passed a resolution that performers on video cassettes or TV programs and films in cassette form must be compensated 'on a system of fees in perpetuity' with the continuing payment related to the exposure, expanded audience and economic return of the cassettes." The congress described cassettes as having "enormous potential."

—Item: The trade press also reports that writers guilds from America, Canada, England and Australia adopted a resolution "strongly endorsing participation by writers in gross revenues derived from their work via cassettes, video disks, compact devices and other forms of consumer-choice reproduction."

—When a strike of movie and television writers threatened a pivotal point. A top official of the writers' guild said: "We know we are on the brink of an entire new entertainment industry ... the coming evolution to this industry will make motion picture sales to TV seem small in comparison."

—Item: Twentieth Century-Fox has formed an audio-visual division to make cassette and cartridge films for both home consumption and the educational-al-industrial market.

And, all over, shrewd stock-brokers and lawyers are seeking out companies with cassette potential for their clients.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

FRANK KOENIG doesn't usually show emotion in front of reporters but it was obvious on Wednesday that he was doing a slow burn over remarks made by C. David Locks, president of Pattern for Progress, at a speech on Tuesday night.

Locks said that the Broadway East urban renewal project was an example of frantic planning in an address before the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce's Total Community Development Committee. Just to make sure he got his point across, Locks added that city hall should have never been built downtown.

We don't blame Koenig for being burned. Koenig is down in the pit, so to speak, while Locks is up on the mountain, charting the future of the Hudson Valley for the next 50 years. The view from up there is quite a bit different from the one down here.

Locks can make the Rotary-Kiwanis-Lions-Chamber of Commerce luncheon circuit with his plans for the future while Koenig has to get things done now. It's not difficult to draw up a master plan for the future; it's quite another thing to get it accomplished.

One shouldn't leap to the conclusion that Koenig is against long-range planning. That's hardly the case. Urban renewal was a great plan. If it had gone according to plan Broadway East would be a new city by now and the Uptown area would have been vastly improved.

It hasn't gone that way. It is only just beginning to go that way after five years of turmoil and frustration. It's the Koenigs who get blasted when the plans go awry . . . not the guys who originally drew them up.

We don't agree that Broadway East was an example of frantic planning. Probably what Locks meant was that Broadway East turned into an example of frantic execution. Still, we are stuck with it and Koenig is trying to make the best of the situation. It's called facing reality.

THE BUCKLEY THING — Who was that man on the white horse? The Lone Ranger? Nope. James L. Buckley, high riding (at least in these parts) Conservative Senatorial candidate who came to town on Monday.

Buckley, as expected, was well received. Some 500 residents heard his speech at Kingston High School, most of whom reportedly left the room with blistered hands suffered in their spontaneous reaction to Buckley's address.

This Buckley guy seems to turn people on. We ran into Mrs. Florence Beichert, Conservative committeeman in the 13th Ward, at the bowling alleys on Wednesday night. Mrs. Beichert was having a disastrous night on the lanes, but she had faith . . . in Buckley. "Why, I'll just rub my Buckley campaign button and I'll be all right," she enthused. It didn't work. She threw the next ball left of center. "He has to win," Mrs. B. said after missing the split. "Everything he says is right."

Friday morning we arrived at work to find a Buckley brochure on our desk. A note said: "Know you're non-partisan but — RIGHT IS RIGHT." The author? Knute Beichert from the Freeman photo engraving room, Flo's husband. No fights in that family.

'TIS THE SEASON — My, how time flies. It's October already. How do we know? . . . Freeman headlines. Vogt blasts Nirenberg. Rolison blasts Lenefsky.

There is some time-honored political formula that says campaigning begins in earnest on Oct. 1. It seems to apply in particular to Republican incumbents in this area. The Dems can say virtually anything about the GOP up to and including Sept. 30. But after and including Oct. 1 . . . watch out!

Thus, Francis J. Vogt, the Republican candidate for district attorney, who has ignored his Democratic opponent Alex J. Nirenberg for just about the whole summer, gives him both barrels in a press release on Thursday.

Nirenberg had taken a dim view of the DA's record on narcotic convictions. Vogt, offering his figures claimed Nirenberg's statements were "outrageous."

We don't begrudge Vogt his defense of his office but the kicker on the bottom of the story was a bit much . . . to wit . . . "Nirenberg . . . is not even a full time lawyer but is primarily a real estate broker." Frank Vogt doesn't have to use that kind of attack to get elected.

Similarly, Jay P. Rolison, the incumbent State Senator, opened up on his Democratic opponent, David Lenefsky, on the first. Jay charged that his opponent has been coming up with all kinds of programs and spending plans while at the same time advocating tax cuts. Rolison, like Vogt, was defending his office . . . perfectly acceptable.

But then Jay strays off the track and comes out with the charge that Lenefsky voted for the first time in Ulster County in 1969. That's the old carpetbagger routine which has been thoroughly discredited. As we recall, the same charge was made against Congressman Ham Fish Jr. four years ago in the Republican primary.

Jay Rolison doesn't have to stoop to conquer either.

WRONG NUMBER — Francois of City Hall? No, Mayor Francis R. hasn't gone into the beauty shop business. He has enough trouble with his own cowl.

It seems The Freeman ran an ad for Fab's Beauty Studio on Boice's Lane and ran the phone number as 331-3733. That number happens to belong to Mayor Francis R. Koenig at city hall. The correct number for Fab's Beauty Studio is 338-3733.

Imagine this conversation:
"Good morning, Mayor Koenig's office."
"Hello, I'd like a wash and set."
"Call the Board of Public Works."

Electoral College Still A Hot Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Re-tering the required two-thirds form of the presidential election system suddenly has become a live issue in the Senate again, with a showdown shaping up for early next week.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., unexpectedly filed a third cloture petition Friday to cut off debate on a House-approved constitutional amendment for the direct election of the president.

And Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., a leader of the opposition, offered to vote Monday on his alternative proposal to divide each state's electoral vote among the presidential candidates in proportion to their popular vote.

Some senators predicted growing support for Ervin's proportional plan if backers of the direct-election amendment conclude it has no chance of mus-

NEW YORK (UPI)—The revolt by prisoners in a city jail has spread to two more detention centers. But a breakthrough was reported today although inmates remained in control of portions of three jails and held 23 hostages.

Prisoners at the Queens House of Detention in Long Island City, where the riots began Thursday, sent word early today they would release their five hostages as soon as a judicial panel begins reviewing their bail. A state judge had promised the inmates during all-night discussions he would begin a review "the first thing" today.

There was no word on the fate of the 18 hostages at the Manhattan jail. Prisoners who rioted at a Kew Gardens Detention center did not take any hostages.

Prison officials at Long Island City said prisoners' records were being assembled from files. A spokesman said Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was involved in the nightlong conferences which led to the breakthrough.

A representative of the rioting prisoners had said Friday the five hostages at the Long Island City jail would be killed if the inmates' demands were not satisfied.

Notes passed from the prisons and officials' reports have indicated that the hostages—five at the Queens institution and 18 in a Manhattan jail —were being treated satisfactorily.

The prisoners said they wanted no "privileges," but basic improvements in conditions: speedier trials, lower bail and relief from overcrowded conditions in the jails, among other demands.

Mayor John V. Lindsay sent word late Friday night to the rioting prisoners in the Long Island City jail and in the Manhattan House of Detention for Men, known as the Tombs, that he would visit the inmates to discuss their grievances. But Lindsay said he would not set foot in the prisoner-controlled jails until the hostages were released.

The disorders in the Tombs broke out in midafternoon Friday. Only prisoners on the 11th floor of the 12-story building participated in the revolt, but they seized 18 hostages — 11 guards, two guard captains and five civilian chaplains' assistants, according to official reports.

The third jail, the Queens House of Detention in Kew Gardens, was disrupted shortly after 9 p.m., officials said, when nearly all of the 600 inmates refused to be locked in their cells. They quickly took control of most of the building, adjacent to the principal courthouse in Queens, as guards ran to escape being taken hostage.

At the Long Island City jail, a smaller detention center, the rioting prisoners held virtually all of the building, guards said. All inmates were released from their cells by keys taken from guard hostages. The 86-year-old jail, designed to hold 160 men, has 338 inmates.

Early today the situation at all three jails was quiet. Hundreds of police, many with riot guns and tear gas equipment at the ready, ringed the tall brick buildings, which were illuminated by searchlights. Officials said the rioting prisoners did not appear inclined to make an escape attempt, however.

The Kew Gardens takeover had been the most tumultuous. The prisoners shattered some of the thick, opaque plate glass windows in the cellblocks and lit fires in mattresses and bed sheets.

Bits of flaming material and water from a fire hose cascaded from the eight-story building and the inmates' shouts rang out over the quiet residential neighborhood: "We want bail" and "Black, white and Puerto Rican: We want justice."

One prisoner who pressed close to one of the tiny windows called down to a crowd of neighborhood residents and newsmen. "I haven't looked out this window for two years."

Prison officials said most of the men in the jail have been awaiting trial, some on felony charges, for an average of three months. Convicted prisoners sentenced to a year or less in jail also are occasionally held in detention centers.

The Tombs, located in lower Manhattan adjacent to Criminal Court and in the vicinity of City Hall, was the scene of extensive rioting by prisoners on Aug. 10. The jail, built to accommodate 932 men, held more than 1,900 at that time, but the inmate population has since been reduced to slightly more than 1,400.

Marchers Undaunted by Ky Rejections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Carl McIntire and his followers, disappointed but undaunted by the absence of South Vietnam's flamboyant vice president and his wife, marched through the streets of Washington today, praying and singing for victory in Vietnam.

As many as a quarter — million had been expected for the march and rally at the base of the Washington Monument. But police prepared for a much smaller crowd after it was learned Mrs. Nguyen Cao Ky apparently will not attend.

The on-again, off-again plans of the attractive Mrs. Ky kept rally sponsors and airline officials hopping Friday amidst conflicting reports of her plans to fly here to read a speech written by her husband, who originally was to attend.

Mrs. Ky was not aboard an Air France flight from Paris that landed in New York this morning, more than five hours late. She had boarded the plane earlier but got off when it returned to Paris with engine trouble. Pleading fatigue, she did not reboard and was reported at the Ky residence in Paris.

Urging a military victory over the communism they say threatens Christianity and the freedom of Americans, McIntire and his followers planned to march from near the Capitol down Pennsylvania Avenue to the monument grounds.

Scheduled speakers at the rally included Rep. John Rarick, D-La., retired Army Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Lane and numerous fundamentalist leaders.

In the meantime, the radical Youth International Party (Yipies) planned to continue Friday night's so-called "celebration of life" in a portion of Rock Creek Park that runs through the city.

Over 140 persons were arrested Friday night in the commercial area of the Georgetown section of Washington as young people gathered for the announced purpose of celebrating Ky's decision not to attend the McIntire rally.

About 150 youths selected the area's busiest intersection to hold the first segment of their planned weekend "festival," singing and dancing while motorists — some frightened, others amused — made no progress getting through the area. Hundreds of additional youths stood by on the sidewalks, laughing and cheering.

When the civil disturbance unit, led by District of Columbia Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson, and there were at least four injured into position just a few yards away, the mood changed. Bottles and missiles were tossed at the police, who then dispersed the crowd and made arrests.

Most of those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct — failure to move on. Some the "celebration of life," several seemingly innocent night club patrons were caught when po-

Break for 18-Year-Old Vote; Await Supreme Court Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new law lowering the voting age to 18 has passed its first major legal test less than three weeks before a key challenge is heard by the Supreme Court.

In a suit brought by five New Yorkers against Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and New York's Board of Elections, a three-judge federal court here upheld Friday the constitutionality of the 1970 Voting Rights Act, including the 18-year-old vote provision.

The Supreme Court holds a hearing Oct. 19 on a suit brought by nine states attempting to overturn the 18-year-old vote statute approved by Congress earlier in the year.

The high court is expected to rule on the question during its fall term which starts Monday.

The three-judge panel rejected arguments of the New Yorkers against all provisions of the Voting Rights Act, including a nationwide ban on literacy tests, residency requirements for voting in presidential elections, and extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

In affirming Congress' decision to change the voting age by a simple act rather than a constitutional amendment, the three judges resolved a conflict between two sections of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

The judges favored the section guaranteeing all citizens equal protection of the laws over another section which mentions 21 years as the voting age.

But the section in which the 21-year limit appears basically provides for a reduction in congressional representation by states which denied the right to a vote to citizens, the judges said.

Thus, they concluded, the 14th Amendment does not limit Congress from lowering the voting age since, they said, the framers did not make clear whether 21 was the legal age limit for voting.

The judges also said denying the right to vote to citizens between 18 and 21 constitutes an invidious discrimination in violation of the 14th Amendment's equal-protection clause.

A team of Justice Department lawyers handle the case for Mitchell, while Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a chief sponsor of the voting rights amendments, and the Youth Franchise Coalition joined in filing friend-of-the-court briefs.

Declaring the law constitutional were Court of Appeals Judges David L. Bazelon and George E. MacKinnon and U.S. Dist. Court Judge William B. Bryant.

Envoy Leaves Mideast; U.S. Continues Talks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
U.N. Middle East peace mediator Gunnar V. Jarring headed back to his regular diplomatic post in Moscow Friday, handing another setback to hope for an Arab-Israeli settlement.

Secretary General U Thant said Jarring "has done all that he can do" and said the Swedish ambassador would resume his post in the Soviet Union temporarily. Thant said Jarring is expected to return to the U.N. headquarters in New York "around the middle of October," but could fly back within 24 hours if the situation warranted it.

In another development Friday, the top American envoy to the funeral of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser met with new Egyptian leaders in Cairo and emphasized the need for continuing the cease-fire in the Middle East and resuming peace talks.

Elliot Richardson, U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare, said after the meeting with acting President Anwar Sadat that the discussions were cordial.

Richardson said he discussed the sale by the United States of Phantom fighter-bombers to Israel, as well as Israeli charges of Egyptian cease-fire violations. Israel has charged that Egypt is moving its anti-aircraft missile sites closer to the Suez Canal cease-fire zone in violation of the Aug. 7 truce.

Richardson said he found the Egyptians had a "genuine interest" in continuing the Middle East cease-fire and peace negotiations. The 90-day truce agreement is due to run out Nov. 5. Richardson said the United States would support an extension of the cease-fire if needed.

The U.S. official also met informally with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, but there was no word on what the two discussed, if anything.

"Androcles and the Lion" — A Treat for Area Small Fry

(See inside for details on children's performing arts series)

Full Week's TV Listing From Oct. 4 Thru Oct. 10

A BEAUTY OF A SHOW for children is "The Silver Button," a bright and shining musical for the younger set based on Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped." In this exciting scene (l-r) are Dean Santoro as the swash-buckling Alan Breck, Danny Guerrero as young David Balfour, and Don Abrams as a sailor. "Button," with lots of action for the small fry, comes to Kingston Nov. 7 under arrangements made by the local Junior League. (William C. Poore photo)

YOUNG DANCERS for a young audience is the guiding principle behind The Ballet Team troupe. The company brings its dance program to Kingston High School auditorium on the afternoon of Jan. 30. A Spanish flair adds to the magic of classic ballet in "Ole! Ole!," one of the dance numbers performed with narration by the Team. Also on the bill of fare: modern dance, African, Caribbean, rock, story-telling dance, and technique demonstration.

Three New Musical Treats for Kids

New and delightful musical adventures are in store for Kingston area youngsters in an upcoming children's performing arts series that has much to recommend it.

Among the trips and treats dear to the hearts of small fry everywhere are entertainments that bristle with action and energy. Local moppets will get both when the Junior League of Kingston brings its second annual Young Peoples Theatre Series to town.

For the 1970-71 series, the League has picked three light-hearted productions with wide appeal for all children and, most particularly, those in grades three through seven. League representatives previewed over 50 available productions recently in New York; selected three they knew would keep a youthful audience's eyes riveted on the stage with their energetic goings-on.

Some of the Finest

Kudos, then, for the Junior League and its foresight in presenting a fall and winter series representing some of the finest children's theatre available in the U. S. today.

On the program for tykes are a thrilling musical adventure, a dance exhibition boasting a variety of whirling forms, and a modern theatrical sound and light staging of an old and favorite fable.

First to arrive on the scene will be "The Silver Button," a musical version of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped." Filled with good guys and bad guys, happy songs and sad songs, exciting duels and mad chases, "The Silver Button" is right on the button as dazzling youth entertainment.

Set in Scotland in 1751, "Button" relies on exciting drama and music to tell the story of young David Balfour as he travels to seek his inheritance from his wicked Uncle Ebenezer, one of those "mean old men" adored by young audiences. It's all there — the eerie House of Shaws, an orphan kidnapped aboard a ship, a friendship struck with a brave swashbuckler, a shipwreck and more, more, more.

It Stimulates

Children, teachers and critics

alike have been enthusiastic about this brisk, action-packed show. Here's a beautiful offering that will stimulate in children a desire to read all of Stevenson's books, and give them an exciting afternoon of viewing superlative settings, costumes, acting and music. It's a musical delight for kids six and over, and an hour of pleasure for their parents.

"The Silver Button" will take to the stage of Kingston High School Auditorium on Saturday, Nov. 7 at 1 p.m.

The second children's show by the League will be "Ballet Crossroads," also at the high school and arriving Jan. 30. This will be ballet with a lure for both boys and girls — a rollicking dance program with narration performed by young dancers for a young audience.

A varied show, it will introduce The Ballet Team troupe prancing through modern dance, classic ballet, ethnic dance and even a story telling dance. Fascinated youngsters will see the stage become a dance classroom in which the speed, strength, and coordination of dance are demonstrated with liveliness and explained in language a child can understand.

A Surefire Hit

Always a surefire hit is one dance about sports. Popular, too, are ethnic dances from Africa, the Caribbean, and India, including a dance called "Karate" which was inspired by the combat style of the Far East. Boys will love the sports and "Karate" dances; girls will be delighted with the performance of a short but complete classic ballet with a Spanish flavor.

Last, but not least, will come "Androcles and the Lion," that charming and well loved story of a tailor who befriends the king of the beasts. The production being presented here will appeal to young imaginations for its emphasis on adventure, suspense, action and humor.

Parents and educators have long used the tale of Androcles and his four-legged friend as a poignant lesson in courage and simple humanity. A most excellent troupe, The National Theatre Company, will present this epic tale for the League's SET IN SCOTLAND in 1751, "The Silver Button" relies on drama and music to tell the story of young David Balfour and his adventurous travels to seek his inheritance from his wicked uncle. In this scene, William C. Poore as the lawyer advises Danny Guerrero as David. (W. C. Poore photo)

EVEN LITTLE BOYS will enjoy the dance program in the children's performing arts series here this year. Why? Because when The Ballet Team does "Gymkhana," young male dancers go through such sports moves as boxing, football, basketball, calisthenics and karate — all set to a rock beat.

New Gallery With Living Room Warmth

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, OCTOBER 3, 1970

The newly opened Kingston Gallery of Fine Arts and Crafts specializes in warmth with an intimate and personal touch. That's often easier said than done, but C. Andrew Ball, who presides over the premises, has managed to accomplish what he set out to do. In the charmingly attractive Colonial residence that houses the gallery at 59 St. James Street, Ball has arranged the paintings, sculpture and other works on exhibit in a homelike setting, negating the often plush sterility of too many galleries. Works of art come vividly to life in the Kingston Gallery, where Ball has worked to arrange them as they might eventually find their way onto a wall in the average household. In the three rooms given over to the gallery at the St. James Street address, he has not hung a hodgepodge of paintings in overabundance; has tried instead to maintain a "one wall, one painting" stage setting.

How Well It Works!

It works because it emphasizes in-depth selection while allowing all works to stand out in singular clarity. And it captures a viewer's imagination through the impression it gives of warmth through the very fact that it is indeed in a home. Attention to lighting and Ball's determination to hang a painting or set up a sculpture so it is "by itself and has living room," gives the Kingston Gallery its unique personal look.

Here the walls are not cluttered with dozens of paintings by many different artists. Instead, the work of each artist represented is brought out that much more strongly because it often stands alone.

Andy Ball has "had an urge" to open a gallery since he "began dabbling in sculpture" in Bard College classes instructed by Harvey Fite. "I fool around with sculpture myself," he says, "and I felt Kingston could use a gallery of the type I envisioned."

Ball is quick to observe that he has "always been disappointed" in the normal gallery which, more often than not, lacks an intimate feeling.

How It'll Look at Home

He contends that most galleries are usually "very cold, professional and commercial," and says that by doing it his way — fashioning a rotating exhibit in the home — prospective purchasers will be given a good idea of how a work of art might look in their own house on their own walls.

What Ball has attempted is a warm, intimate gallery that does not intimidate but, instead, is intimate and personal. His attempt has borne fruit, it seems to us, in more ways than one.

In the process of opening his art showplace, he has discovered from the very beginning what he calls "a complete and fascinating subculture in the area." He believes it probably exists in all towns since, locally, he has discovered people who have been painting for years — people with no formal training who are "exceptionally good" artists.

Says Ball: "They should have a showcase as well as the professionals."

In the Kingston Gallery, he has managed to give them just that. Side-by-side with the work of recognized professional artists hang paintings by artists with no formal training, ranging from a 70-year-old grandmother to a 16-year-old teenager.

Humorous Sculpture

If you drop by the Kingston Gallery (and it's now open for business Monday through Friday from 7-9 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday from 2-5 p.m.), you're in for a treat. We've already set our sights on one of Kingston sculptor Gerald Arroyo's whimsical works, all of which boast a wild sense of humor.

Against a white wall or a bamboo curtain background, you'll also find the works of several Woodstock artists. Gladys Brodsky shows oils with a sculptural look; Nancy Summers has entered some intriguing paintings on oilcloth; Stephanie Godwin is represented with works of rare delicacy.

All works in the new gallery are original and everything is represented from the traditional to modern to make this a truly composite gallery.

Above the fireplace, Ball has arranged a row of clever pottery pieces by ceramist Lovonne Filipek. On an adjacent wall, an excellent portrait of a young choir boy by Claudia Scott Stapleton attracts the attention. A painting of a lovely old building by Leslie Sanford monopolizes one wall, and a burst of sunflowers by Myra Hamlin dominates another. Avant garde metal sculpture by Philip Gurrieri blends well with such realistic paintings by Woodstocker Gurdon Howe as those of Overlook Mountain, a cement plant, an ancient bridge and a Victorian house.

Delightful and Clever

Illustrator and portrait artist Frank Larson, of Woodstock, offers some stunning work, as do John Zaccheo and Dorothy Aqualina. An untitled still life, tributed by a pulsating seascape, and nostalgia, in an old house are contributed by Lisa McGrath. Totally delightful are several papier mache animals (an alligator, a bunny and a chicken) by Claudia Scott Stapleton, who also exhibits a uniquely wondrous series of totally clever crayon works based on "Lord of the Ring," a popular work of fiction with youth today.

Tempo recommends a visit with Andy Ball at his new St. James Street gallery soon. He

A PAEAN to Victorian architecture is this sunwashed but ghostly painting of a house from that era. The work of Woodstock artist Gurdon Howe, it is currently on exhibit in the just opened Kingston Gallery of Fine Arts and Crafts.

ANDY BALL, who has turned three rooms of his attractive Colonial house into a gallery with a homelike atmosphere, sets ceramic pottery pieces by Lovonne Filipek along the mantel. A Gladys Brodsky oil adorns the firescreen.

'Brecht on Brecht' Opens New Season

Performing Arts of Woodstock will open its new season with "Brecht on Brecht," directed by Allison Crockett, October 16, 17 and 18 at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Route 212, Woodstock.

The play is a collection of readings from the plays, poetry, letters and notebooks of German writer, Bertolt Brecht. Martin Henderson, Larry Shufeldt, Jo Chalmers and Julia Callahan make up the cast.

Allison, who will be making her first effort as a director, served as assistant director to Frank Alexander and to Steve Callahan in PAW productions of 11 Riders to the Sea" and "Pickpocket" and "Gems of the Ocean" last year.

A Cultural Force

A native of Kalamazoo, Mich., Allison has lived in Woodstock for a year and a half. In addition to her activities with PAW, she works as a model for the Art Students' League and the Woodstock School of Art and as a photographer. She hopes to promote "the growth and development of PAW as a leading cultural force in the Woodstock area."

At 26, Allison has already amassed an impressive list of professional theater credits. She has worked as an actress, stage manager, assistant director and lighting director.

Her acting experience includes summer stock at the Barn Theatre, Inc. in Augusta, Mich. and the American Theatre Festival in Coldwater, Mich. as well as educational theatre at Kellogg Community College in Battle Creek, Mich. She has appeared in "the Threepenny Opera," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Tobacco Road," and other productions.

With Various Theaters

Allison has also served as production assistant for Lansbury Brothers Production in New York, administrative assistant for the Westchester Theater Company, a member of the administrative staff of the Kalamazoo Civic Theater and as co-producer for the New Vic Theater, also in Kalamazoo.

Off-broadway, she has worked in such productions as "A View from the Bridge," "The Mad Show," and "Sea Gull."

Tickets for "Brecht on Brecht" will be available at the door. Curtian time is 8:30 p.m.

STEVEN KATZ of New Paltz with his ink drawing, titled "Fruit Collection." The fine-line drawing is one of 82 varied works now on view in the Coach House of the Vanderbilt Estate, Hyde Park, where the Poughkeepsie Kiwanis Regional Art Show is attracting large crowds.

OPENING DAY VIEWERS move in for a close look at oils and drawings included in the Second Regional Exhibit, currently highlighting the 50th anniversary of Poughkeepsie Kiwanians. Artists represented sent or brought work from four states.

Variety Is the Spice in Kiwanis Regional Show

Like so much of the architecture commissioned by wealthy tycoons of the past, the Vanderbilt Estate Coach House in Hyde Park is larger than life. Big, stolid and impressive, it is more mansion-like than one would surmise necessary for the housing of carriages.

These October days, however, it is lending itself well to use as an art gallery, and its vast interior is a perfect setting for dozens of oils, water colors, drawings and pastels that make up the current Poughkeepsie Regional Art Show.

The varied exhibit which now hangs in the Vanderbilt Coach House on Route 9 in Hyde Park, opened last weekend; will run daily through Oct. 10 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

82 Works Included

What browsers will find there are more than 80 paintings and drawings, exhibited by artists from all over New York State and parts of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Michigan. Perhaps Sidney Geist, Manhattan artist-lecturer - teacher - author who served as juror for the show, describes the display best. Says Geist: "The most interesting aspects of the paintings submitted were the variety. I found many promising things, especially in the work of what I think must be non-professional painters."

Variety there is indeed! So many subjects and styles are represented that the mind boggles. Five top awards were made, with each artist tapped receiving $100. The winners were: Hopewell Junction artist George A. Podorson for his pastel oil, "Poughkeepsie Rounds;" Lola Lennon Schurman of Poughkeepsie for an untitled acrylic; Annandale-on-Hudson painter Matt Phillips for his oil, "Still Life with Figure;" Poughkeepsie's Mary Langston for her oil, "Five Faces;" and Hopewell Junction artist Gloria Barshay for her oil, "Dream Dying."

Ulster County artists are well represented in the show via works by painters from New Paltz, Milton, Bloomington, Kingston, Woodstock, Samsonville, Marlboro and West Hurley. While the majority of the work comes from Dutchess County, much has been contributed from adjacent or nearby counties; others represent Connecticut, Massachusetts and Michigan. Officers of the Poughkeepsie are to be congratulated for the attractiveness and appeal of this Second Regional Art Exhibition, highlighting the 50th anniversary of the club. The shows are aimed at assisting in the future establishment of an Arts Foundation Center in Poughkeepsie, certainly a worthwhile cultural achievement for the area.

Tempo recommends a visit to the show during the coming week; believes the exhibit will provide enjoyment for all who see it. And all who see it will be viewing a wide slice of life on canvas, as exemplified by just a few of the titles: Boat's End, Apple Trees, Autumn Gold, Black Rosary? (T.G.)

Bridge to Utopian Heavenly Joy, Martha's Vineyard, Spring

Thaw, Country Road at Cornwall, Model T, Old Stone House, Winter Morning, Airport, Spring Meadow and Storm King. Or how about: Rain on Window, Forest Dawn, Huckleberry Turnpike, Pink Snow, Moonshine, Chickery and Lace and

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY FREEMAN

"ANDROCLES AND THE LION," ever-popular story about a Roman tailor who makes a four-legged friend when he extracts a thorn from a lion's paw, will be produced here by The National Theatre Company. The Junior League of Kingston is bringing the charming show to a local stage on Feb. 20.

Three New Musical

series. Booked at the high school auditorium on the afternoon of Feb. 20, "Androcles" will arrive with its own sets, lights, and colorful costumes.

A unique innovation will be the use of a rock musical score to tie the "today" scene with life in ancient Rome when gladiators and emperors reigned supreme. The company also utilizes film projection in "Androcles," one of the most current "now" concepts in theatre today. All this, together with the message that every man has the right to be free, makes this last show in the League's series a unique experience for children.

So Much for So Little

High praise for the Junior League from Tempo for bringing such a wealth of entertainment to Kingston — and for offering these treats for the low, low price of only $2 for the entire series.

That's because the League is bringing the series here as a community service on a non-profit basis to help make live professional theatre an integral part of school and community life.

Bear in mind, however, that last year the series was sold out. So get your tickets soon, they're now on sale through any member of the Junior League, or you may call Mrs. John F. Crews, 321 Main Street, Kingston, for further information on ticket sale sites.

Remember to buy seats for your youngsters as soon as possible and remember, too, that all performances will be at the local high school auditorium on Saturday afternoons at 1 p.m.

'Diamond Bikini'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — French star Alain Delon will play a bit role in Columbia's "Diamond Bikini" after visiting the set in Italy to see his girl friend, Mireille Darc, who plays a leading role.

'Contemporary Art' In a Country Museum

Storm King Art Center, in its third and final exhibition of the 1970 summer season, is presenting a Selection of Sculptures and Paintings from the Aldrich Museum of Contemporary Art of Ridgefield, Conn. This special exhibit will be open to the public from now through Oct. 31.

A loan exhibit of 20th Century sculpture and painting, it contains many examples of works by avant garde artists. Among those represented are Billy Al Bengston; Ilya Bolotowsky, Sam Francis, Howard Jones, Louise Nevelson, Eduardo Paolozzi, Picasso, Robert Rauschenberg, Lucas Samaras, Jason Seely, John Willenbecher and others. These sculptures and paintings from the Aldrich Museum of Contemporary Art demonstrate the active involvement of artists in new materials, techniques, and in the differing styles that characterize the art of the mid-20th Century.

The two museums, Storm King Art Center and the Aldrich Museum of Contemporary Art, have been termed "sister museums" in their common purpose to provide a country museum for the exhibition of contemporary art. The Aldrich museum was founded in 1964 in Ridgefield, Conn., by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Aldrich; Storm King Painting from the Aldrich Museum will be on view at Storm King Art Center Galleries from in 1959 under the aegis of the 2 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. Closed on Mondays; admission is free.

GALLERY OWNER BALL, who says he "fools around with sculpture myself," has included his "Deer's Head" in the current show. He's had an urge to open a gallery since "dabbling in sculpture" at Bard College.

New Gallery

(Continued on Page 17) has hopes to constructively change the gallery scene in terms of paintings by utilizing only a few on a wall at a time, so he can switch the exhibit regularly and give the public a new show quite often.

That means you'll have to drop in often to keep up with this ever-changing gallery. Ball's plans also include art classes for adults and children at the gallery soon and, in the big, big backyard, outdoor showings in season. (T.G.)

Performance Seminar An Impressive Event

It was an impressive event, this first Performance Repertoire Seminar, with talented soprano Karen Ranung conducting the demonstration-discussion. Impressive for the more than 30 people attending, including a number of vocal students, as the three-part series got underway last weekend at West Park's Ascension Parish Hall.

Soprano Ranung told those attending the purpose of the series is to provide a pre-recital experience for vocal students. Stressing the need for an understanding of the lengthy preparation necessary for young soloists, she spoke of the importance of focus, tone and speech, and creation of the vocal line. To demonstrate the meaning of those terms, she sang an early Italian song for her audience.

Woodstock contralto Patricia Cummins also performed during the seminar. Choosing a selection from the German repertoire, "Romance," from Rosamunda by Schubert, Mrs. Cummins used her beautiful contralto voice to full advantage. Beginning by reading a translation of the poem, she followed the reading by singing the song in German.

Other Performers

Other vocal students also performed at the West Park program, including Gary McCartney, Hopewell Junction baritone, whose powerful voice did well by a 17th century Italian song and a song by Schubert. Also introduced by Miss Ranung was Poughkeepsie soprano Ginger Thomas. Mrs. Thomas, currently preparing an Oct. 18 recital, lent her fine soprano voice to selections from Italian opera.

The second seminar in the series (with the public invited to attend at low admission) is scheduled this Sunday, Oct. 4, 3 p.m. It will again be held at West Park's Ascension Parish Hall; will feature French tenor Yves Tinayre lecturing on "Poetry and the Art of Rubato in Singing." Also, on the program: Miss Ranung and her advanced students presenting vocal technique in relation to poetry, dynamics and interpretation, using art songs sung in recital.

The third and final seminar will be presented Oct. 11; is open to area soloists interested in participating in a master class of interpretation. Prospective participants should contact Miss Ranung by writing P.O. Box 156, West Park, or calling 686-5723.

WITH OUR OWN HUDSON RIVER in the background, the cast of "Hello, Dolly!" welcomes Barbra Streisand (left foreground) back to where she belongs. Much of the spectacular musical was filmed at nearby Garrison because of its similarity to the Yonkers of an earlier era. "Dolly" has opened for what will probably be a lengthy run at the local Mayfair Theatre.

MOVIES

Hello, Dolly!

Barbra Streisand, the girl with the voice of five songbirds rolled into one, is back in the biggest, spaliest, longest-running musical of them all. Nothing has been left out of the spectacularly costumed "Hello, Dolly!" now in the first week of a fairly lengthy run at Kingston Mayfair. Gags galore, spirited production numbers, vaudeville mugging, and love, sweet love are all tossed in for a story of the raucous misadventures of a professional matchmaker named Mrs. Dolly Levi.

As a super-colossal musical and multi-million dollar production, the film version of "Dolly" succeeds for the same reasons the stage version did. Streisand fans will find her singing better than ever, if that's possible, as the effusive young matchmaker widow. And fans of rubber-faced Walter Matthau will be happy to see their man as a dandy supreme in the role of Horace Vandergelder, a successful hay-and-feed merchant in Yonkers.

Filled with nostalgia for the good, old days, and ending in a glorious romantic finale, number plotted by Kelly and Kidd would be.

"Dolly" is geared for the over-35 audience; will definitely prove pleasing to this age group. Younger movie-goers will enjoy the choreography, some of the best ever seen. "Dolly" has a wealth of blithe and sumptuous dance numbers, for which much credit must be given director Gene Kelly and choreographer Michael Kidd.

Kinetic Dancing

The story, as almost everyone knows by now (since more than 50 women have played Dolly Levi on Broadway and in road companies, and the musical now holds the longest-running record on a Manhattan stage), concerns Dolly's plan to snare Vandergelder for her own. If the plot is thin and uncomplicated, the dancing is inspired and kinetic.

Streisand's musicianship is also above reproach, and the number that brings down the house is the one in which she makes her spectacular entrance to the tune of "Hello, Dolly" in which she joins orchestra leader Louis Armstrong. Watch, too, for a dance number called "Dancing." It's a wow, as any

Darling Lili

While we have never particularly favored type-casting in the acting profession, we have to admit that it sometimes has merit.

Take "Darling Lili," for example. This new musical film, now featured at Kingston's Community, asks us to believe that Julie Andrews could be — at one and the same time — England's favorite singing entertainer during World War I and a German spy.

That's like asking us to believe that Liza Dolittle joined the SDS in revenge against Professor Higgins; that the mother hen of the Trapp Family Singers was Eva Braun in disguise; that Mary Poppins was a secret agent for the FBI and her umbrella concealed a deadly stiletto.

Undermining the Rock

Anyhow, "Darling Lili" has Julie collaborating with a nasty Hun (Jeremy Kemp), who poses as her uncle but is really a member of the German In-

A Do-It-Yourself Kiln Building Workshop

EASY DOES IT when you're placing a cast catenary kiln on its base. Doing the delicate work here (l-r) are: instructor Frank Colson, of Sarasota, Fla., Elaine Zaug and Marion Levinston. They were participants in the just completed and phenomenally successful Kiln Building Workshop held at the Sylva Hutchins Studio, Woodstock. Colson came to Ulster County direct from Ireland, where he held demonstrations at the World Craft Conference, to instruct the five-day workshop in building ceramic kilns.

A ROMAN ARCH KILN was one of four different kinds of kilns actually built by students during the sessions offered by Frank Colson in Woodstock. Working on this particular gas-fired ceramic kiln (l-r) are: Janet Toy, Michael Hennerty, Sylva Hutchins and Billy Luisi. Colson's innovative techniques attracted a large number of Ulsterites to the local workshop, and many made their own take home kilns, designing them under his expert professional assistance in only a few days. Lock, Stock & Barrel In New England Show

As owners of Kingston's Lock, Stock and Barrel, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Whistance are specialists in early American glass and porcelains of the types made in the U.S.—and those imported for use here—more than 150 years ago.

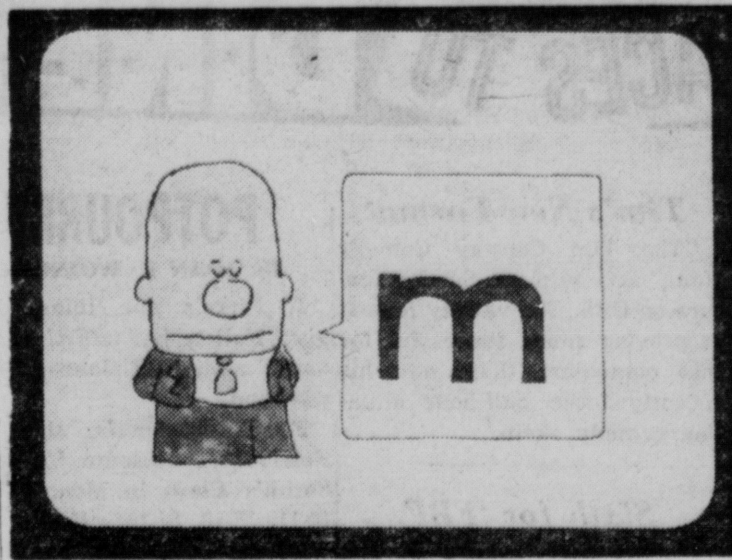

With a reputation as experts in the field, they have been invited to participate in the third annual Connecticut Antiques Show, known as New England's largest exhibit and sale of authentic 18th century Americana.

They will join more than 70 antiques dealer-collectors, all specialists in early American furniture and accessories, in staging the Nutmeg State show today at the State Armory in Hartford. The exhibit will help raise funds for the maintenance of five historic house-museums in Connecticut.

Landmarks Society Host

The show is being sponsored by the state-wide Antiquarian & Landmarks Society, which maintains the Nathan Hale Homestead, the 17th century Buttolph-Williams and Hempsted Houses, the 18th century Hatheway mansion and the 1816 Amasa Day house.

Lauded as the most comprehensive show of its kind by many collectors and museums, the show will have exhibitors' booths arranged as vignettes of room settings to show early antiques in use. Refreshments will be served in a re-creation of an 18th century coffeehouse.

SESAME STREET animates the letter "M" to make the alphabet fun while learning for pre-schoolers. "Street" is now seen Saturday mornings on Channel 17.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

If there's one thing that'll give Fall a bad start, it's not havin' a big-deal planned for the weekend.

For history-buffs, there's a Festival at Museum Village of Smith's Clove in Monroe (Oct. 10-11, 17-18, 24-25) offering such craft activities as baking in brick oven... applebutter and soap makin'... weaving... candle dipping... pewter casting... wool dyeing... pottery... quilting and plenty more etceteras that kept milady in-the-home before Women's Lib Movement.

A tour of rural America — circa 19th century — with 38 colorful buildings includes one-room school house, back in days when it wasn't sinful to mention God; when teacher was paid two cents per pupil per day and did the collecting herself. School boasts homemade benches (no two alike) and features dunce cap perched threateningly on high stool in corner near fireplace.

Postoffice and general store still offer wooden nickles, quills, and an old cracker barrel bearing note: Please take only one. Shelves are lined with Gold Dust Cleanser, Foss Vanilla, Duke's Smoking Tobacco, McCready's Gall Remedy. Pulled up near potbelly stove are two straight-backed chairs and old oaken barrel holdin' well-worn checker board, while wall-picture depicts close game between squire and postmaster.

Visitors roll back years to early Americana with dress emporium; log cabin; apothecary, barber, clock shops; pioneer exhibit; country store; Quaker meeting house; natural history museum. In other words, life - business - amusement BEFORE tie-dyed bell bottoms, TV dinners, "talkies," horseless Carriage, boob-tube, Blood-Sweat 'n Tears, pop art, pollution, pot, pornography, and instant coffee. Back in era when a night-on-the-town meant double-dip ice cream cone and game of Dominoes, an age when a kid who cut up to get attention, really got it... and it HURT!

Not to be overlooked is carriage house with glass-walled, velvet-curtained hearses that carted-corpses-to-sepulcher-in-style, and late 19th century platform truck used by electric company for changing street lamp bulbs, which, by the way, was purchased in Kingston.

As for directions: by jitney, it's Exit 16 on Thruway; by horse, take Route 17 to Monroe.

On way home, stop at Goose Pond Inn to get back in 20th century perspective. Recommended: stuffed lobster tail or broiled filet of sole, and while relishin' each morsel, feast your eyes on startling red, white, black interior, lavish paintings, life-size statues, floral and fountain displays. It's a two-way trip in time tunnel through 100 years in less time than a congressman - can - make - a-speech!

Even Capri proprietor Joe Costello sneaked into main dining room to hear The Waymakers — Redemptorist seminarians from Mt. St. Alphonsus — who entertained at Catholic Daughters 58th banquet one recent Thursday. A hunk of bread (homemade), a glass of wine (Sauterne), and Fr. Miguel Nascimento, Fr. Gene Daigle, Fr. Mike Quinn, Fr. Jim Gilmour, Fr. Mike Gallagher, Fr. Joseph Olive it was like being born wealthy.

Street & Hodgepodge Help 'Headstarters'

"Sesame Street," "Misterogers Neighborhood" and "Hodgepodge Lodge" came to Saturday mornings on Channel 17 beginning this morning at 8:30 a.m. The first weeks of broadcast for the Saturday morning programs which continue without interruption until 1 p.m. have been made possible by contributions from PTA groups and individual members of Channel 17.

Beginning this week "Sesame Street" resumed its twice daily schedule. The morning broadcast will be at 9 a.m. to help the many Headstart and kindergarten groups which use the program as a teaching tool. In the afternoons, "Sesame Street" will continue its 4 p.m. broadcast schedule.

The Saturday morning on Channel 17 will look like this: 8:30 a.m. Misterogers Neighborhood; 9:00 Sesame Street; 10:00 Hodgepodge Lodge; 10:30 Misterogers; 11:00 Sesame Street; 12:00 noon The Music Shop; 12:15 All About You; 12:30 Hodgepodge Lodge.

Zippy Action

"Sesame Street" is the fun and learning program for pre-schoolers that uses animation, puppets and zippy action to teach children letters, numbers and concepts. In contrast, "Misterogers" approaches the small child as a special friend who is interested in whatever that individual child does. A visit to "Misterogers Neighborhood" is a highly personal experience for youngsters.

"Hodgepodge Lodge" is a program for slightly older children which premiered recently on Channel 17. On "Hodgepodge" children learn what lives in the woods and how those animals and plants relate to humans.

"Music Shop" is a 15-minute show that will be seen only on Saturday mornings on Channel 17. Hoagy Carmichael uses the piano and songs to teach kids about music. "All About You" is another "Saturday only" show that teaches health education painlessly. "All About You" answers the questions of children about such things as why you have to take a bath, and what makes your eyes see.

Benny Alumni

"Jack Benny's 20th TV Anniversary Special" on NBC Nov. 16 will have such Benny alumni as Dennis Day, Don Wilson and Eddie (Rochester) Anderson aboard as well as Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra and Dinah Shore.

Michener in the Role Of Problems Solver

THE QUALITY OF LIFE. By James A. Michener. Lippincott. $4.95.

Popular novelist Michener plays the role of a public spirited citizen in this little 127-page book, examining the most pressing problems of this nation and the world, and offering some personal suggestions toward their solutions.

Here are his main topics: the cities, race relations, education, youth, communications, the environment and the world population explosion.

Michener sees the problem of the cities mainly as a dilemma created by the flight from the inner city to the suburbs, and proposes such remedies as broadening the tax base and the development of metropolitan government. His analysis of the race question comes down essentially to a question of economics and education. His viewpoint on the universities is that in opening up education on a quantity basis we have lost sight of the individual.

Foresees Changes

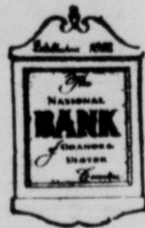

Regarding youth he discusses the inequalities of the draft, and the dangers of drugs and alienation from society. He foresees some remarkable changes in television and other media of the future. He expresses some optimism about controlling the environment, but presents some disturbing data about the population explosion, especially in Latin America.

His concluding chapter recommends getting out of Vietnam, the development of a new spiritual basis for democracy, a more equitable distribution of society's benefits and a new devotion to a balance between protest and stability.

Various readers may agree or disagree with the points the author makes. But at least his arguments are offered in a calm and reasonable way, and are fruitful bases for the average citizen to reach his own conclusions.

intelligence team. Her real name is Lili Schmidt, but she has become a music-hall star as Lili Smith. One of her assignments is to learn how the Allies are planning to utilize military aircraft, information she must obtain from Major Larrabee (Rock Hudson), the dashing squadron commander of the Allies SE5's.

Needless to say, Rock is smitten by Lili and tells more than he should. The plot gets complicated when French Intelligence asks Lili's help in checking on Rock, believed by them to be passing military secrets to the enemy. It's also complicated by the fact that Andrews and Hudson are falling in love, that Rock has challenged the Red Baron in the air, and that the chief of German Intelligence (Carl Duerig) is a vindictive man, out to get Lili and her make-believe uncle.

Ah well, if Andrews is not all sugar in this one, she delivers nostalgic songs like "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and several new numbers with her usual zest. "Lili" is entertaining enough in its own way, but it seemed to us that both Miss Andrews and Hudson were upstaged by the jim dandy bombing scenes and the dandy rooney aerial battles.

Women in Love

Many are the ways of love, and a large proportion of the number is put on display and analyzed in "Women in Love," now showing at the Roosevelt in Hyde Park.

The film is a remarkably faithful adaptation of the novel by D. H. Lawrence, better known as the author of "Lady Chatterley's Lover." It is a fine movie; dissects beautifully the aspects of love in varying degrees: mental, spiritual, and physical and heterosexual, paternal, sororal, and homosexual.

"Women" is a must for admirers of the novelist; will also prove interesting for viewers willing to accept the subject of sex on an intellectual plane. Some may even find the sex more sensationalized than in intellectual, especially in a scene in which the two major British stars — Alan Bates and Oliver Reed — square off in a naked wrestling match.

But "Women" is not pornography and does not rely on mere nudity to lure an audience. This is a film with very real and solid virtues, a highly intelligent script, and splendid acting by an absolutely brilliant cast.

War of Gargantua and Monster Zero

It all started with King Kong and it's been going on ever since. Monster movies, that is.

There have, however, been refinements and additions along the way. The ferocious yet somehow pathetically lovable Kong confined himself to kidnapping of pretty girls and fighting off airplanes. Japanese film-makers long since hit upon the idea of a lone monster against the world or monster against monster.

If such fun and games appeals to you, you'll get your jollies at the local 9W Drive-in this weekend. That's where the most terrifying monsters ever dreamed up by the special effects and wardrobe departments (remember Godzilla and Michthra and a whole host of others) are fighting it out for the global title.

before in films and sequel films, but "War of the Gargantuas" and "Monster Zero" are brand new releases, and the mighty battles on screen have never been seen before, the producer would have us believe.

Well, maybe. Personally, we lean to the theory that if you've seen one monster battle, you've seen 'em all.

Other Choices

ON A CLEAR DAY YOU CAN SEE FOREVER. Barbra Streisand buffs and admirers of Yves Montand will love this movie, now featured at both the Lyceum in Red Hook and the Rosendale Theater. Based on a Broadway musical of the same name, it offers lots of songs, some pleasant comedy, and a story about a not-too-bright gal who discovers she's clairvoyant.

SEXUAL FREEDOM IN DENMARK. "If we had any morals, we'd use 'em ourselves," said Will Rogers back in the '20s. That nothing has changed in that direction is amply proved by this bedside exploration of anatomy, now in its fourth week at Saugerties Orpheum. Nothing has been left out of this very explicit sexual exploitation film, but its sexual choreography left us feeling that we didn't want to dance. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)
